PARASHA OUTLINE BY CANTOR VOGEL

1. The Torah reviews the names of the family of Yaakov who went to Egypt.
2. The expansion of the family into a nation and the beginning of the enslavement.
3. Paroah's decrees to control the growth of the Israelite population.
4. The birth of Moshe and his early life in Paroah's palace.
5. Moshe kills an Egyptian and flees to Midian where he meets Yitro's daughters.
6. The travail and prayers of the Israelite slaves in Egypt.
7. Moshe encounters God at the burning bush, is appointed prophet and is assigned the task of redeeming the Israelites from slavery in Egypt.
8. Moshe returns to Egypt (after some 60 years), he and his brother Aharon speak to the Israelites.
9. Moshe and Aharon appear before Paroah who then intensifies the workload of the Israelites.
10. Moshe complains to God and God promises that the redemption is close at hand.

Haftarah Note

The first sentence of the Haftarah echoes the opening of the parsha. The Haftarah recalls the ba'im-those who came to Egypt with Yaakov and the tremendous growth of the nation, how it yatzitz ufarach-blossomed and flowered, umalu-and filled the land of Egypt beyond the borders of Goshen giving Paroah his excuse for enslavement.

AIPAC Israel Update

Iran Says it Unintentionally Shot Down Ukrainian Airliner

Iran's military announced early Saturday that it had accidentally shot down a Ukrainian passenger jet, blaming human error because of what it called the plane's sharp, unexpected turn toward a sensitive military base. After days of tension since the jet crashed near Tehran on Wednesday, the same day that Iranian missiles struck American bases in Iraq, the admission was a stunning reversal. Iran initially maintained that mechanical issues had brought the Boeing airliner down, killing all 176 people on board. International pressure had been building on Iran to take responsibility. American and allied intelligence assessments had already concluded that Iranian missiles brought down the plane most likely by accident, amid heightened tensions between the United States and Iran. Following Iran's admission of fault, thousands of Iranian citizens took to the streets to voice their opposition to the Iranian regime. In response, Iranian police and security forces fired live ammunition and tear gas to disperse demonstrators. Since protests first began in November, more than 1,500 Iranian citizens have been killed by Iranian security forces attempting to extinguish the unrest.
