

Giving Tzedakah

Our hearts are heavy with concern for all those who are suffering due to this war. Many of you have asked us about where we can donate to support the people who are living through this nightmare.

This is a diverse list of ways to give financial support to those who are suffering on the ground due to the war. We are offering a wide range of options in hopes that you will find one or more organizations that you can help. This list includes Israeli non-governmental organizations from humanitarian aid to medical aid, search and rescue, and soldier and civilian support for those who are suffering on both sides of the border. We ask that you receive this list with respect and understand that members of our congregation will make different decisions about how to give. Please choose an organization and donate.

Stand With Israel

In this challenging hour, the Israeli and Jewish spirit of solidarity shines brightly. Countless organizations have mobilized to assist citizens and soldiers in receiving the support they need.

Identify the volunteer organizations that resonate with you, contribute to them.

Magen David Adom

Magen David Adom has activated all 1,400 of its ambulances and is treating the wounded, often while under rocket attack and gunfire themselves. MDA EMTs are among the casualties.

Your help is desperately needed to put more ambulances on the road and to replenish supplies for both EMTs and paramedics and for MDA's blood services division, which is supplying blood for the wounded.

Basic care for the most vulnerable groups: While the country reels from this attack, we must make sure that no communities are left behind. Families in the kibbutzim near the Gaza Border are still not reunited and may not have the access to care that they need. Several Bedouin citizens from unrecognized villages in the South have been killed and many more injured. With very little infrastructure – including very few bomb shelters—and decades of neglect by consecutive governments, this community needs urgent support to ensure that basic care is available for those injured, left homeless, and for those needing arrangements for the dead. These are just examples of two vulnerable groups that need our help right now.

“Our educators in Sderot, Ashkelon, Beer Sheva, Rehovot, Tel Aviv, Rishon Letzion, and other affected communities are assessing all the critical needs and addressing them. Educators are in touch with students, program participants, neighborhood leaders and groups, making sure they are safe and accounted for. Emergency initiatives include:

Supporting evacuees: Day care and programs for traumatized children and youth are desperately needed for families who have been evacuated from Gaza border communities under attack to Dead Sea Hotels, our boarding school in Mitzpe Ramon, and more.

Youth counselors in bomb shelters: In underprivileged communities where people don't have safe rooms in their homes, our experienced youth educators are running therapeutic and educational programs for children and families in Rehovot and Ashkelon, with more locations opening as soon as deemed safe.

Day care for children of hospital workers and other essential staff: We are currently fielding requests from hospitals throughout Israel to set up day care centers for children of doctors, nurses, and staff so they can treat the injured while schools are closed.

Support for children and families sheltering in place: We are providing in-person and online programming, distributing activity kits and other educational materials in Sderot, Ashkelon, Rehovot, and more.
