

Questions to Consider

In “Who Do We Honor,” does the linking of the commandments from each of the tablets provide you with further insights into their meaning?

Do you agree with Gersonides’ teaching about respect?

Is Chernick correct in stating that the commandment to honor one’s parents is about caring for their physical needs? Are there other aspects to honoring one’s parents?

According to Rabbi Wolf, how does the doing of the commandment to honor one’s parents change everything?

In both The Poems of Ruth and Ruth the Moabite, the poets talk about “emptiness” and “fullness.” What does this mean?

How do Ruth and Naomi honor the The Commandments in Rabbi Yael Levy’s The Ten Utterances?

What kind of man was Boaz?

In Ruth Speaks to Naomi, why does Ruth say

We are widows now, the shriveled leaves that blow along the rooftops.
We are worth nothing

What was your response to THE ONE WHO TURNED BACK (ORPAH)?
