Dvar Torah

During the Pesach Seder, we go through many steps. We eat matzah, marror, a green veggie, and sweet charoset. Towards the end of the first part we come to "Korech," eating a sandwich made with matzah, marror, and charoset. This sandwich symbolizes those which were eaten in haste as the Jewish people fled Egypt. The Korech sandwich represents three things; the korban pesach lamb which is rich and delicious, the matzah which is bland, and the marror which is bitter. These different items also describe the people whom we interact with everyday. Sometimes we meet someone who is filled with life and excitement, like the roasted korban. Other times we find ourselves with someone grouchy and upset like the marror, and many times, people are just going about their days without either characteristic, like the matzah.

Together, the whole seder is about unity and sibur. Klal Yisrael includes a diverse range of personalities and we learn from Pesach that we cannot have the seder without all of them. "Those who are hungry should come and eat", even those who may be grouchy or bland that day.

After Shul Ask Your Children:

1. Who are the four sons?
2. What is eaten during 'Korech'?
3. What does 'dayenu' mean?

Answers:
1. The wise son, the wicked son, the simple son, and the son who doesn't know how to ask
2. A sandwich made with matzah, marror, and charoset
3. It would have been enough
