A MESSAGE FROM RABBI STRAUCHLER*WHERE WE FOCUS

Israel is singled-out for criticism on university campuses, at the ICC, and in the United Nations. While we do not claim that Israel is without fault, we recognize a persistent bias. Interventions that focus exclusively on Israel while ignoring the abuses of other actors and states show a selectiveness that often crosses into anti-Semitism.

Our choice of issue to address is just as significant as what we say about any given issue. Rabbi Ovadya Seforno calls attention to this fact when commenting on Yitro's response to yetziat mitzrayim. Yitro was the first disinterested third party to learn of the events at Yam Suf. The Torah tells us, וַיְחַדְּ יִתְרוֹ עַל כָּל־הַטּוֹבָה אֲשֶׁר־עָשָׂה ה' לְיִשְׂרָאֵל אֲשֶׁר הֵצִילוֹ מִיַּד מִצְרַיִם:

"Yitro rejoiced for all the goodness which God had done to Israel, in that He had delivered them from the hand of the Egyptians" (18:9.)

The Seforno explains,

יחיד יתרו על כל הטובה. לא שמח על אבדן מצרים כראוי למקנא לכבוד קונו, כענין ישמח צדיק כי חזה נקם אבל שמח על טובתם של ישראל, כמרחם על דמעת העשוקים:

"Yitro did not rejoice over Egypt's destruction in the way of one who is concerned for honour and glory..., rather he rejoiced in Israel's good fortune in the way of one who is compassionate towards the tears of the distressed." Yitro chooses what to focus upon. He was less concerned about politics and more concerned about compassion. As a result, he rejoiced upon the goodness done to Israel and not the destruction meted out upon the Egyptians.

In the face of pernicious antisemitism, we must follow Yitro's example and focus on the miracle that is modern Israel. We must rejoice in Hashem's goodness. We face a spiritual risk if we adopt a narrative of destruction and its celebration. We must not simply fight Hamas in Gaza – we must fight its philosophy of violence. Like Yitro, may we choose to focus on compassion. We seek a better world where Hashem's kindness is experienced by all of Hashem's creation.

***NEW***ISRAEL INITIATIVES: THERAPY FOR CHAYALIM- METIV

On October 7th and 8th, IDF heroes from the Oketz dog handling unit, together with their dogs, helped rescue hundreds of Israeli civilians. Since then, they have been on the front lines in Gaza and have suffered injuries and losses, including dogs. The destruction, the fighting and devastating sights these heroes have witnessed will stay with them forever. To alleviate the trauma and help them process and take a breath before returning to their families and friends (and then back to the battlefield) Oketz chayalim and their dogs will participate in emergency therapeutic intervention programs run by Peace of Mind-Metiv. These week-long programs are critical for well-being. Rinat is proud to be sponsoring five days of group therapy for a group of Oketz IDF heroes. Please join Rinat in sponsoring urgent group therapy for more IDF heroes. To sponsor, go to www.rinat.org/metiv.
