

From Rabbi Chaitovsky

Good morning, everyone. It has been quite a weekend with Shavuot and Shabbat as well demonstrations protesting the senseless murder last week of George Floyd by a police officer (since fired and charged) in Minneapolis. The well intentioned and legitimate protests were marred here - and in other cities - by aggressive behavior, violence and destruction, prompting a curfew through this morning. Depending upon what ensues today, that could be extended. I wish that those promoting violence and other destructive behaviors will realize not only the unlawful nature of their actions but also that their actions undermine the impact of the important message represented by the protest itself.

By now you should all have received electronic as well as paper copies of the important letter about BMH-BJ reopening. The Task Force has met and is meeting again. Plans are being carefully formulated encompassing all aspects of emerging from our isolation. I want to stress, again, that your safety and health is our most important consideration.

We thank you for your patience. Please stay tuned for more information as it becomes available. We all look forward to brighter days ahead with the doors of BMH-BJ slowly opening for the benefit of all of us.
