

From Rabbi Chaitovsky

Good morning to you! The past two mornings have been beautifully different from every other morning since March 15. We have not had services in the building since March 15 - the day we suspended our daily minyan and all services after Shacharit. As of this week, though, our Shacharit minyan has resumed!

Yes, it is outdoors. Yes, temperatures are taken before entering. Yes, there is a sign up requirement. Not totally "normal", but, it has been a wonderful experience in every respect. To be able to daven together was magnificent. To see the joy on the faces of daveners - men and women - as they greeted their fellow minyanaires for the first time in a long while was worth all the time and effort that went into making the minyan a reality, again.

Thanks to Ilene, Andy, Simcha on the administrative end, thanks to President Jeff Kline and our Board for their support, thanks to the Task Force for helping to fine tune procedures and protocols, thanks to the Cantor, and, of course thanks to HaShem for the blessing of beautiful weather and the opportunity to once again, begin our day in sacred community.

We are not fully open yet - it is still one step at a time - but, rest assured, we are working towards that goal every day. We will keep you updated as next steps are formulated.

Blessings to you all.

Rabbi Chaitovsky
