1. Sacred Space and Sacred Time: Class with Hazak taught by Rabbi Helfand

Thursday's at 11 AM In person & on Zoom (Begins November 4)

The Jewish calendar is the circadian rhythm of Jewish life. From holidays to rituals and from the mundane to the sacred, our "luni-solar" approach to sanctification of time is core to our identities. In this class, we'll explore evolution of the calendar, how it works, and how it brings a deeper layer of meaning to daily practice, ritual, and even our ethical understandings of living as 21st century Jews. Free and all are welcome in the Hazak Community (55+ group). You can participate in person or via Zoom. Learn more and Register on the OKC Website!

2. Veteran's Day Shabbat at OKC, an annual Hazak activity, will be celebrated on November 13 with acknowledgment of military service by members of Ohr Kodesh. Please join us!

3. Movie Night!! UpHeaval with Director, Jonathan Gruber!! Thursday, November 18, 7-9 pm We will transform the Social Hall into a movie venue for in person and socially distanced seating, snacks and discussion. No charge and open to all. Jonathan will speak after the movie about this Menachem Begin documentary. To see the trailer for the movie, click on this link. <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=dVhgEpeEJrg>

4. Thanks to all who joined in at our Birdwalk and special thanks to Dora Klayman and John Walter for the pictures. The morning was really perfect and the park renovations, including the accessible trail were enjoyed by everyone. We had a very knowledgeable guide, Mitch Green, who did bird calls for us and oriented everyone to the use of the binoculars and so much more.

5. Can you believe it? Chanukah is immediately after Thanksgiving this year, (11/28-12/6) making the calendar move so quickly. We wish you all a beautiful Thanksgiving around whatever table you gather and a rededication to each other for a Chanukah of light and joy.

From our house to yours, warm wishes. Sandy
