President's Column: John List Inclusiveness at TI

As you read this, TI is forming a Standing Committee on Inclusiveness as a platform to bring renewed focus to our shul's commitment to welcoming and including those with disabilities.

On December 3, our Centennial SHALEM Program featured a panel on this topic. Moderated by Stephanie Roodman Murdock, the panel included TI Members Betsy Wohl, Paula Tucker, and Debbie Pomerance, joined by Lisa Handelman, a Community Specialist of Disability Inclusiveness at the Jewish Federation of Greater Washington (JFGW).

The Program was very well attended. As a result of the panel and my conversations with many since then, I am supportive of, and enthusiastic about, leveraging our rich past in inclusiveness undertakings toward a vibrant future of more accomplishments.

Significant Past Accomplishments

As a long-time member of TI, I have witnessed many of our initiatives. About 16 years ago, TI's ATID campaign was more than beautification, it was also about inclusiveness. As part of that campaign, major inclusiveness changes to our building included improved lighting, installation of the elevator, and adding the lift for access to the bimah in the Wolman sanctuary.

At the time we created the rain garden, we installed the more permanent, metal ramp to the Juniper Street entrance. The renovations of the restrooms on the Cherner level focused on insuring ADA compliance for those facilities. Most recently, we have improved the safety for the main stairway from the Juniper Street Lobby to the Emsellem Room/Mollie L. Berch Library.

Beyond these infrastructure elements, we have hearing loops, large print siddur-im, large print handouts and sign language interpretation for services.

TI's practice has been to welcome persons from the Jewish Foundation for Group Homes to join us for the High Holy Days. Many members of our community have given generously of their time and efforts and provided financial support to bring about these accomplishments.

Nevertheless, there is much more to consider and we have a core of individuals who are ready to participate on an Inclusiveness Committee. Larry Bram and Louise Kelley have agreed to serve as Co-Chairs.

Among the resources available to the Committee are the training and collaborative services from JFGW, including a congregational assessment tool that JFGW has developed.

Engagement of Other Committees

My understanding, based on conversations with TI'ers and research into practices at other shuls, is that our Inclusiveness Committee should be engaged with every other committee. Inclusiveness should also be considered when issues are being discussed in the context of Ritual, Membership, Communications, Finance, Programming, the School, and budgeting.

Stephanie and Yony Mazal

Stephanie and Yony have lived in Washington for nearly five years. Stephanie is a physician assistant working in urgent care, and Yony is an MRI technologist in a cardiology lab at NIH. Yony grew up in various places, first in France and England and then in the US, including Connecticut and Ohio.

He met Stephanie in Chicago, where she grew up. After Chicago, the couple lived in Columbus, Ohio while Yony did graduate work. The two are proud parents of Joey, now three years old.

Although Stephanie and Yony are new TI members, they are not new faces in the TI building. They have been active members for several years of Segulah, an independent minyan that regularly meets at TI. Now with a tot of their own, they started attending TI's regular and dynamic Tot Shabbat events, a gateway activity for many of TI's younger new member families.

They credit Wilhelmina and Stefan Gottschalk with drawing them into TI, making Wilhelmina and Stefan the TI Community Outreach Magnet Members/Staff of the Month. Yony is already taking a class with TI member Rabbi Chuck Feinberg, which he likes. Stephanie and Yony enjoy outdoorsy and active pastimes, especially training for and running in races, now often with a jogging stroller.

Welcome to the Mazal family!

In addition, I foresee the committee working closely with TI's professional staff.

February is Jewish Disability Awareness Month. In the next several weeks, I anticipate that we will all be learning more about the mission of TI's Inclusiveness Committee.

News from Goettingen

Naomi Revzin

The Gemeinde Congregation (TI's sister synagogue) in Goettingen, Germany has a thriving "culture café." Its topics focus on contemporary issues and historical events that have current relevance.

The topic for December was the Leningrad Blockade from 1941 to 1944 and its impact on World War II. As many Gemeinde members have Russian linkages, it was of particular interest.

The Gemeinde has initiated a choral group -- something for us to consider -- as well as a members' musical evening. Like TI, the Gemeinde has an ongoing schedule of Hebrew courses and also German for newer immigrants from Russia. I like the idea of a TI musical evening.

Social Action Shabbaton January 13-14

The annual TI MLK Social Action Shabbaton is scheduled for Friday-Saturday, January 13-14. As the Social Action Committee is planning a project for TI to support a refugee family (see Social Action column on page 5), the main thrust of the shabbaton will be to provide information and background related to immigrants and refugee resettlement.

After Kabbalat Shabbat services and the USY Tikkun Olam Tzedakah dinner on Friday evening, January 13, there will be a speaker on immigration/refugee issues. During Shabbat morning services on Saturday, January 14, the drash will be given by Rabbi Jennie Rosen, Vice President for Community Engagement at HIAS. She will give an update on the current situation and the prospects for refugee resettlement.

After kiddush lunch a panel, moderated by TI member Rabbi Devora Lynn, will include Sarah Beller, HIAS Community Engagement Director for the DC area, and Jon Halpern and Gretchen Young, congregants who are currently working to help resettle a Syrian family.

Two additional people, who represent local refugee resettlement organizations with whom TI would be working, have been contacted to join the group. The panel will help inform the congregation and provide the basis for determining an appropriate commitment level for TI's plans to work with a refugee family.

New Member Shabbat

During Shabbat morning services on January 28, we will honor and welcome people who joined Tifereth Israel in 2016 and everyone in their households.

New members are asked to RSVP at <http://tinyurl.com/TINewMembers16> and to send a family photo to Wilhelmina@Tifereth-Israel.org so we can make a photo board for the lobby.

Everyone else – please welcome our new members whenever you see them, not just on the 28th!

Himmelfarb & Chai School Happenings

Rina Rebibo

December flew by, but was filled with lots of learning, engaging activities and Hanukkah fun. The students at Himmelfarb also honed their culinary skills. On December 14, Michael Twitty took some time out of his cooking schedule to captivate our students with fascinating stories and juicy tidbits about the laws of kashrut. And the Chai School had a Hanukkah Cook-Off on Sunday, December 18 (see photos below).

On December 21, over 150 people attended our 6th annual Hanukkah Extravaganza. This year's event included the Rabbi's famous sufganiyot, Roz's delicious dinner, an olive oil tasting and multiple activities for all ages.

Children were able to make their own olive oil and saw an ancient olive oil press, the 5th graders performed their own scripted play, we sang songs, played a dreidel brackets game and the older students had a blast with the mannequin challenge, Hanukkah style.

Finally, we welcomed our new administrative assistant, Elisha Levi-eddin, to the school. Elisha recently graduated from the University of Maryland, Baltimore County, with a B.S. in Psychology and minor in Jewish Studies. She will be at TI on Sundays and Wednesdays, during school hours. Please stop in to say hi!

Important Upcoming Dates

Sunday, January 1: No School – Winter Break

Wednesday, January 4: School back in session!

Shabbat, January 14: No School – MLK Weekend

TI's New PTA

Rina Rebibo convened T.I.'s newly-minted parent teacher association (PTA) for the first time December 4. The PTA has big plans to support the Himmelfarb School's programming, fundraising and communication efforts. At the meeting, parents and Rina discussed ways to acknowledge teacher efforts, plans for implementing emergency procedures, and liaison to the synagogue's board.

The PTA helped with December's Hanukkah party and will next work with Rina to organize class calling trees during inclement weather cancelations and a January teacher appreciation event. Parents and Rina will meet with emergency preparedness officials to coordinate and implement emergency procedures and run drills.

The first meeting was chock full of good ideas and enthusiasm. The next PTA meeting is scheduled for Sunday February 12. Please contact Rina at rina@tifereth-israel.org if you would like to be involved.

Social Action at TI: Stephen Nelson Members Support a Syrian Refugee Family

A few months ago, this column featured some of the initiatives being considered by the Social Action Committee concerning Syrian refugees. As it turns out, one TI couple is already helping a Syrian refugee family.

Jonathan Halpern and his wife, Gretchen Young, decided more than a year and a half ago to get involved in the Syrian refugee issue. They contacted the Ethiopian Community Development Council (ECDC), one of several organizations responsible for resettling refugees in the Washington DC area, and volunteered to help. Since August, they've been serving as "family mentors" to a Syrian family, helping them adjust to life in the US.

Overcoming Obstacles

Doing so has required overcoming obstacles which would otherwise seem rather routine for U.S. citizens or even for many immigrants. "People don't realize how difficult it is for these people, many of whom don't speak English, come from quite different cultural settings and spent years in refugee camps, to navigate a lot of these obstacles" Jonathan says.

In fact, the day I interviewed them, Gretchen had spent hours on the telephone with officials from the Department of Health and Human Services and state agencies to get Medicaid benefits reinstated for the family. They had been dropped for reasons no one could explain.

Other issues they have experienced include obtaining a drivers' license (without the normal identification required), dealing with a utility company threatening to shut power off, and filling out and filing paperwork with ECDC to prevent the cut off of temporary support. "Our job is not to do it for them, but to help them learn how to do these sort of things," Jonathan says, adding, however, that inevitably they get involved with the family's interactions with government agencies, non-profits, and other players. "I find that mostly these government officials have been supportive, but it's a very complicated system, which is prone to break-down."

The Syrian family lives in Prince George's County, where many refugees have been settled because of the relatively affordable housing there. Jon and Gretchen generally visit them about twice a week, but "they call us a lot in between." Gretchen adds that a strong bond developed between them and the refugee family. "At this point, we consider them extended family and they us."

Halpern, who is currently a part-time advisor to the Treasury Department on Infrastructure Finance and the former Lead Economist for Infrastructure for the World Bank, is particularly interested in Middle East issues. His undergraduate degree is in Arabic literature, and he spent years working on various power and infrastructure projects in the Middle East.

Moved by World and U.S Events

"Witnessing the recent events in Iraq and Syria and the xenophobic reactions here in the US really crystallized things for us," leading to their joining ECDC's family mentors program. Halpern also noted that his father was a rabbi in Detroit during the civil rights movement, and was actively involved in social justice, and so that it's natural for him to be involved as well.

During that time, he learned that the Jewish community has a mission to care for and fight for the underprivileged and oppressed, including those outside of the Jewish religion. "Our kin were refugees in the 19th and 20th centuries and before that as well...this is something we know in our bones," he says. He contrasted that sentiment with the initially tepid operational response of major Jewish organizations to the plight of today's refugees who seek a new life in America.

Halpern joined TI about 15 years ago, because of its egalitarian nature, strong social justice ethos and because "it seemed more open to the rest of the world." He says they have gotten great support from the TI community for their recent efforts, in particular from Rabbi Seidel and the Social Action Committee, as well as from several churches and many more caring individuals in the area. He noted in particular that Rabbi Seidel intervened to make sure one of the couple's sons could get an emergency root canal.

USY Tikkun Olam Tzedakah Dinner

Come Friday, January 13, following Kabbalat Shabbat Services at 6:00 p.m., for a special meal served by USY wait staff.

All profits, including tip pledges made at the table, will go to USY's Tikkun Olam Tzedakah Fund.

Sign up for the dinner, by 12 noon, Tuesday, January 10 at <https://tiferethdc.shulcloud.com/event/january2017>.

Nayes un Mekhayes for TI'ers

Barbara Raimondo

Over the Moon, with Starry Eyes

Morris and Judy Rodenstein celebrated their 30th anniversary December 21. As always, they celebrated both their anniversary and the winter solstice, following which the days start getting longer as we tilt back towards the sun.

Paula Ficker is pleased to report that she has been joined by a new member of the family. A four-legged one. Now she has two. Two four-legged creatures, that is, resulting in eight legs, two tails, an assortment of whiskers, and several "meows."

While the rest of us spent Election Day chilling our champagne and waiting for the announcement that never came, Paula was driving back from Ohio with her mother's cat. Mom is 91 and even with a cat sitter coming twice a week, the cat was not doing well. Paula's First Kitty is not thrilled, but the two cats are adjusting. Paula welcomes any advice TI'ers may have on bringing a second cat into the household.

In other traveling news, just after Thanksgiving, Gene and Esther Herman, along with Esther's sister, Naomi Freedman, vacationed for a week on the shores of the Caribbean. The water was turquoise, food delicious, weather perfect, people friendly, and massages ocean-front.

Esther and Gene's granddaughter, Jenny Firschein, daughter of Rachel and Joseph, spent her third year performing in Nutcracker as an elegant party girl, with the National Ballet at the Warner Theater.

Over the Ocean, with Sari Ties

Aylat Lifshitz, the daughter of Lisa Traiger, is spending her winter break in Mumbai on a community service program sponsored by the Joint Distribution Committee and the Gabriel Project. She is working in an impoverished school on nutrition and English-language learning for young students and is picking up some Hindi vocabulary. Aylat is a senior special education/middle school math major at Towson University.

Ophir Lifshitz, Lisa Traiger's son, continues to be a leader on the University of Maryland College Park's nationally ranked National Academic Quiz Tournament team, as well as an active writer of NAQT questions on the quiz bowl circuit. Ask him anything! A computer science and linguistics major, Ophir will graduate this spring.

Sarah Bram graduated in December from Edinboro University in Pennsylvania with a BS degree in Speech & Hearing Sciences. She will be moving back to the area to pursue a career in Speech Therapy.

Bob Rovinsky is teaching Jewish storytelling as part of a Beit Midrash at a synagogue in Northern Virginia, Temple Rodef Shalom. It will be held Thursday evenings in January. Bob will lead students through the varied, rich, and important world of Jewish stories from Europe and Asia, and from ancient through modern times. See more information at <https://beitmidrashjan2017.eventbrite.com>.

Around the Block from the Bookstore

Jessica Weissman has just started a new job as Documentation Manager for a government contracting company called Validatek, assigned to an office at the State Department. The work is located right next to Reiter's Technical Bookstore downtown, so she expects to learn everything there is to know about avoiding the temptation to buy books.

This past December, Claudine Schweber and Ed Koren decided to change their venue from Jackson Hole, Wyoming to ... Paris, France! Mais, non! No hiking, just lots of walking from café to cabaret. After all, to be in Paris is to be a free man as well as a flâneur (Look it up).

They were there to celebrate Claudine's cousin's bar mitzvah. It was held in a Sephardi shul -- the young man's grandfathers were both from Tunisia. The observance spanned three days. The Torah was enclosed in a silver tubular case that is opened at the vertical center (see, <http://www.stam.net/sephardic-torah-case.aspx>). Claudine and Ed were honored to have been part of this occasion.

In other celebratory news, Barbara and Howard White announce that their granddaughter, Raizel Sober, is engaged to Elad Adler. Raizel has finished her national service and is now studying to be a pharmaceutical engineer. Elad has finished hesder (combined army-yeshiva program) and is studying electrical engineering and physics. Barbara and Howard expect to be traveling to Israel soon.

Sad News

TI member Shirley Carol (Gorewitz) Levine died December 3. She was 95 and was a member of TI for more than 50 years. The funeral was held at King David Memorial Park in Falls Church, VA.

Shirley Levine was predeceased by her husband of 57 years, Murray Levine. She is survived by her children, Steven (Alexis) Levine, Harriet (Mike) Epstein, Mark (Ilene) Levine and Cindy Levine; grandchildren Lee Epstein, Lisa Hale, Scott Levine, Allison Fleit, Erica Weber, Joshua Frankel, and Shayna Frankel; and seven great-grandchildren.

Game Night

On Saturday, January 28, at 7:30 p.m., Game Night (co-sponsored with Gevarim) will feature family friendly games – and as always poker tables. We'll provide some games ourselves but scour your closets and bring the games your family loves to play.

As always noshes will be provided for a nominal cost. Please let us know if you are coming so we know how much to buy. RSVP to KNRsvp@Tifereth-Israel.org.

Book Club

Coming up on Tuesday, January 17, the KN Book Club will be reading Short Stories by Clarice Lispector at the home of Myrna Goldman. See article below for details.

If you want to attend upcoming book club meetings, check out what we'll read at <http://www.tifereth-israel.org/ti-book-club>.

The KN book club met on December 20 to consider Abraham as seen by the three monotheistic religions, for good reason sometimes called the Abrahamic religions. Our guide was Bruce Feiler's book Abraham, a Journey to the Heart of Three Faiths.

David Cohen, grandfather of TI member Allison (Colin) McMillan and great-grandfather of Devin, died suddenly November 23. He was 92. The funeral was held in Florida.

May their memories be for a blessing.

And now for the meaning of last month's word, abbreviated: Oh, come on, you know what abbreviated means!

Thanks to all who sent me news, sent me to others who sent me news, or otherwise helped sniff it out. Send items for next time to baraimondo@gmail.com, with "Nayes un Mekhayes" in the heading, or to P.O. Box 466, Washington Grove, MD 20880. This brings to a close a ludic edition of Nayes un Mekhayes

We meet next on January 17 to read the short stories of Clarice Lispector. Lispector was the most prominent Jewish female author in Brazil, and many different volumes of her work are available, including a new complete volume published recently. Copies are in the Montgomery County library. Choose any six stories that catch your eye. Up after that, in February is Noa Baum's A Land Twice Promised.

Our readings are set through April, but suggestions for readings are always welcome. They need to be of Jewish interest, easily available in libraries or bookstores, and likely to support discussion.

Nonfiction suggestions are especially welcome. Send your ideas to me and I'll put them on the list for our next book selection meeting.

Movie Nite@TI

On Sunday, January 15, at 7:30 p.m., Gevarim and the TI Centennial Committee are presenting three films in commemoration of Tifereth Israel's 100th anniversary:

Passport to 1916: Cynthia Peterman's documentary interviews with TI members on the TI experience over the past 100 years (65 mins).

From the Jewish Historical Society of Greater Washington:

Tzedakah: Jewish Women Creating a Capital Community, 1895-1948 (10 mins); and Half a Day on Sunday: Jewish-Owned "Mom and Pop" Grocery Stores (18 mins).

The films are free, in the Cherner Auditorium, and followed by a discussion led by Cynthia. Nosh is available for $4.

A Great Course on Medieval Jewish Civilization

Gevarim and the Adult Education Committee are presenting "Jewish Civilization from Mohammed to Spinoza," a 12-Sunday series, which began in October 2016, of 24 half-hour video lectures by Professor David Ruderman, University of Pennsylvania.

At each session Allan Tulchin will show two half-hour lectures and facilitate 45 minutes of discussion. Sessions run from 10:15 a.m. to noon in the Library and are free.

The next two sessions are on January 22 (Lecture 9, Moses Maimonides' Philosophy of Judaism, and Lecture 10, Jewish Beginnings in Christian Europe), and January 29

(Lecture 11, The Church and the Jews Prior to 1096, and Lecture 12, The Crusades and the Jews).

The audio for previous lectures is available on the TI shulcloud.

Talmud Study

Rabbi Seidel teaches large sections of Tractate Brakhot approximately twice a month after Shabbat lunch from 1:00 to 1:45 p.m. in the Reamer Chapel. We read the text in English (photocopies are provided) and discuss.

Upcoming sessions are scheduled for January 7 and 21. Even if you've never studied Talmud before, you might enjoy dropping in on our ongoing exploration of this tractate of the Talmud.

Bat Mitzvah

Hi, my name is Alicia (Aly) Levin, and my bat mitzvah is on January 7. My Torah portion is VaYigash, the story of Joseph's brothers coming to him when he is in charge of the food distribution in Egypt.

Even though they were so horrible to him years before, selling him into slavery, he forgives them (but not until he has first messed with their heads a little).

I am in 7th grade at Lowell School. I love gymnastics and just started on a competitive team. I also love art, crafts, making videos, dancing and choreography, and sushi. My favorite person is my beautiful rabbit, Chester.

I hope all of you can celebrate my becoming a bat mitzvah!
