☆ February 2015 / Sh'vat ~ Adar 5775

From Rabbi Jana

It's About Time

February is the shortest secular month with 28 or 29 days. Jewish months are always 29 or 30 days long. Somehow, no matter how long or short our months are, there are still many things we can do together at B'nai Zion.

We are working hard to try to find something that interests everyone: new worship experiences, learning opportunities, events geared toward all ages, events geared to specific age groups, socializing opportunities, social action opportunities, and so much more. Please let me or a Board member know which of our offerings you are grateful to have, and what other kinds of opportunities you would like to see us offer.

Sometimes I hear people say that they want to participate, but don't have the time. Believe me, I understand about having an over-booked schedule. What I don't understand is the concept of not having enough time to do Jewish things. I always understood that being Jewish is a lifestyle, not something to schedule into a calendar. Recently one of my pre-Bar Mitzvah students was trying to explain that being Jewish interferes with sports practice. I explained that even when they practice a sport, they should be practicing Judaism. It is not something we do when we are not doing other things. It is who we are all the time. He can be a Jewish soccer / baseball / basketball / tennis (you name it) player.

When we get together with other Jews for any kind of event, it helps to reinforce our choice to be Jewish, and gives us moments in time to grow, and understand, and find connection with others and with the ideals we treasure.

When we celebrate Jewish moments in time – like Shabbat, holidays, and other special occasions – it also brings us into moments that help to remind us how wonderful it is to be connected. This month I have scheduled a Rosh Chodesh lunch for the ladies. This month our holidays also include Tu BiSh'vat when we appreciate being connected to trees and nature. Acknowledging the awesome world around us, and our responsibility to take care of our world are some of the most important aspects of practicing Judaism. Knowing that when we celebrate something like a new year for trees, we are connecting ourselves not only to the trees and the environment, but to Jews throughout history. We also connect to Jews who are looking only at leafless winter trees covered in snow and people who are looking at newly sprouting baby trees in fertile warm areas.

At Tu BiSh'vat especially, while I was growing up in cold New York state, I loved feeling like I was living in an Israeli time frame. Trees were being planted at a time when my ground was frozen. This year we connect to our trees by giving them a year of Shabbat. It reminds me how much we need to take a break too.

We don't take a break from our Judaism. Our Judaism helps us to take meaningful, refreshing breaks. It's about time.

Bivrachah (with Blessings),

Rabbi Dr. Jana L. De Benedetti

From our President, Donald Posner

It's cold, cloudy and wet. Football season is over. I hope your team won! Duck season is over. I hope you were successful.

So, what is there to do? First of all, come to Sabbath services. It doesn't matter if we meet in the sanctuary or Lefkowitz Hall, our attendance is outstanding. Thanks to all who attend Friday evening services. Also the Rabbi leads Torah study and services every Saturday morning. Get up and come learn.

Second, read a good book. Attend our People of the Book Club. They meet once a month on Tuesday night and carry on a lively discussion about books with Jewish themes. However, if you have read a good book share the title with Sheila and let's put it in the Buzz. I finished reading Unbroken. Great read about a tough guy. Read it before you go to the movie. Maybe, reading isn't your thing. Attend a movie. Take a friend. Let us know if you see a movie that you think others will like. I'm waiting.

Third, perform a mitzvah. Give a little of yourself. We are always looking for volunteers at B'nai Zion to help the "regulars." If you would like to help, call the office.

Fourth, try something outside the box. Do something you have only dreamed of doing. Take a trip. Visit a museum. Join our Chai Mitzvah group. Cook a new dish. Learn to read Hebrew. Perform brain surgery. Well, maybe not that, but you get the idea!

Anyway, that is lots to do on these cold winter days. Read the bulletin or visit our web site for other ideas.

Shalom Y'all,

Donald

From our Educator

I've recently started reading posts online from an organization called Big Tent Judaism. As you might guess, it's about the need for Judaism to be inclusive of all kinds of people. Not everyone shares the same family demographic or the same theology and practice. Not everyone identifies with a "brand" of Judaism or has a Jewish heritage that goes back for generations. There are people who are new to Judaism, and there are people who live in homes where some people are Jewish and some are not. The same is true for most congregations and for most Religious Schools. Nonetheless, as we learned from our patriarch Abraham, the tent door must be open. If Abraham's tent had not been open, he might not have received the visitors who told him that he and Sarah would have a child.

We never know what important information we might gain or what whether interested in learning about Judaism, Jews who visit from other cities, Jews who visit from Jewish organizations. This month we will enjoy a visit from the Education Department of our partner the Institute of Southern Jewish Life, and recently we had a visit from the Community Engagement department of the same organization. Religious School students recently had the chance to visit with a member of Avodah, the Jewish Service Corps that operates in New Orleans, New York, and Chicago.

On March 9 we will welcome Mike Rubin, lawyer, former professional musician, and author of the recently published book, The Cottoncrest Curse.

All of this activity reminds me that Southern hospitality is beneficial to the host as well as to the guest. Please take advantage of our next ISJL visit. Abby Klionsky will visit us on the weekend of February 20-22. She will help lead Shabbat services and Torah study as well as provide support to our teachers and our students. Abby is smart and creative - and young! I love the fresh ideas and enthusiasm of some of our youngest visitors. They remind us of both the idealism and the activism that define young people, and they are great role models for our kids.

March 1 is just around the corner, and that's the day of our Purim Carnival. I can tell you that I've been to Purim Carnivals in New Orleans and San Francisco, and ours tops the ones I've seen. Our face painter and our balloon man will be back, along with great food and games. Thanks to Jodi Hyman for chairing our event. If you want to help us, please call me or Jodi- and if you can provide a cake or cookies for the cake walk, please call the office and put your name on our list. The cake walk is always one of the favorite attractions of the carnival.

Let's continue to look for ways to open our tent doors wide—with others, for others, and for ourselves.

L'shalom,

Helaine Braunig

Simcha Shabbat

Please join us each month when we bless and honor those who will be celebrating a birthday or anniversary during the month. If your birthday or anniversary is in February we will celebrate and honor you February 6, 2015 during services and have a special Oneg Shabbat following services. If your birthday or anniversary is in March your Simcha Shabbat will be March 6, 2015.

It is a mitzvah for us to celebrate together.

Please make sure that the office knows your birthday and anniversary dates. If you are not on our birthday and anniversary list in the bulletin, it means we do not have your information.

Tot Shabbat

Children who are pre-readers and their families (and anyone who enjoys not having to sit still during services), please join us in the Sanctuary for Tot Shabbat, 9:00-9:30 Saturday, February 7, 2015 when we will be boinging and singing together. Rabbi Jana will lead singing, dancing, marching, happy Shabbat service, and tell a story each month. See you there!

People of the Book Club

The People of The Book Club plans to meet February 10 at 7:00 PM .

In the Courtyard of the Kabbalist by Ruchama Feuerman "The unlikely friendship of an intellectual New York Jew and a working-class Jerusalem Arab drives Feuerman's evocative second novel...This friendship is all the more unlikely because it occurs in the divided city of Jerusalem... The city itself emerges as a character: its climate and topography are depicted with a lyricism that contrasts with the area's political tension. [The] story unfolds as a belated coming-of-age tale.... [written in a] quiet, lovely mood." -- Publishers Weekly

Join us and our discussion.

Grow Your Judaism: Chai Mitzvah

Our first Chai Mitzvah group meeting will be Thursday, February 12 at 7 PM There is an $18 fee for materials which we need by February 5 if you are planning to participate – even if you will not be able to join us on February 12. Please contact the office so that we know you are interested. It is not too late. For more information contact Rabbi Jana, Helaine, or www.ChaiMitzvah.org.

Brotherhood Dues

The Brotherhood serves our congregation in many ways:

- ☆Cooking for many events
- ☆Ushering for holidays and major life cycle events
- ☆Providing gifts for members achieving special milestones
- ☆Much, much more

Please join our efforts by paying $25 annual fee, and Say, “yes” when we ask for help with our projects.

Sisterhood Dues

Now that the year 5775 is in full swing, it is time to collect Sisterhood dues, and turn our thoughts to new projects and programs.

Dues are according to the following levels:

- $30 Regular
- $40 Donor
- $50 Patron

It is easy to be a member -- just pay dues. Even if you have never been a member before, please join us. The dues we collect are used for many things, including: to pay the national Women of Reform Judaism dues, because we are part of something much larger than just ourselves; purchase gifts for Bar/Bat Mitzvah students; kitchen supplies, flowers for services, and many other special projects. You are, of course, always welcome to make other donations to help us with our efforts - and you can now make payments with your credit card.

Barnes and Noble Successful Book Fair

The Barnes and Noble Book Fair was very successful. Thanks to everyone who participated, B'nai Zion Religious School received a $72.52 check from Barnes and Noble.

Jewish War Veterans Post 581

The next meeting of the Fred Sklar Jewish War Veterans post will be Sunday, February 8 at 2 p.m. at B'nai Zion.

The post is planning to do a March Mitzvah project for our March 8th meeting. It is a Jewish tradition to bring food and goodies to people for Purim. The Post realized that even if the veterans in the area facilities are not Jewish, they would appreciate receiving goodies and visits. Join us on February 8 at 2 p.m. for the planning meeting. Join us March 8 for the Mishloach Manot March Mitzvah.

You don't have to be a member of the JWV to join and help at our events, but to be a member you can have been in any military branch, and did not have to participate in battles. If you are not a veteran, you are welcome to join as a Patron, and will receive most of the same privileges as members.

North Louisiana Jewish Federation

January 16, 2015

Members of our Jewish community:

I am sure you are all well aware of the terror attacks that recently took place in Paris. Although the weekly satirical news magazine, Charlie Hebdo, was the initial locus of the terrorist activity, once the violence began to spiral, it ultimately resulted in a deadly siege at a kosher supermarket and its surrounding area. As the investigation into this atrocity continues, it is becoming quite evident that those involved are well funded and tied to the precise networks that seek to repress free thought and supplant it with a state of pervasive fear.

The attacks come amidst a continued spike in anti-Semitism in the region and, unfortunately, bespeak of the era in which we find ourselves immersed. It is against this backdrop that I now request your assistance. As the President of our Federation, I have received communications from our parent organization, JFNA, soliciting our collective support in terms of forwarding expressions of solidarity and, moreover, in terms of providing philanthropic support to the French Jewish community.

Trust that your Federation will lend a hand to assist in enhancing the security needs of the French Jewish community and to, likewise, provide humanitarian assistance to the victims of these attacks. That said, we ask that you join us and make a specific donation for this express purpose. You can donate directly through this link: <http://fedweb.fedwebpreview.org/france-emergency-fund> or contact our Executive Director, Kathy Plante, at the Federation office (868-1200) and we will see to it that the Jewish community in France knows that those of us here in Shreveport stand with them.

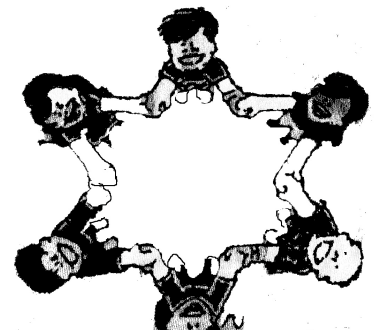

Monies donated through our Federation office must be specifically noted to go toward the French Emergency Fund and are not part of the Federation's annual campaign. The North Louisiana Jewish Federation has already approved a donation from its account to support this cause.

Thank you,
Curtis R. Joseph, Jr.
President

Camp Chai 2015

The North Louisiana Jewish Federation is pleased to announce dates for Camp Chai 2015. Camp is scheduled to be held at B'nai Zion weekdays from July 20-31 under the direction of Jodi Hyman. We are also looking into the possibility of adding July 13-17. Please contact the Federation Office (director@jewishnla.org or 868-1200) if you are interested in the additional week so we can see what kind of demand we have for this activity, and notify you in next month's bulletin. Camp applications will be available on line and in congregational bulletins and the Federation offices in April.

Mike Rubin: Author Visits B'nai Zion

Michael H. Rubin is an author of both fiction and non-fiction books, an attorney, a law professor, a former radio and television announcer, and a jazz pianist.

Although he has published many professional works, he recently published his first fiction novel: The Cottoncrest Curse.

Two decades after the Civil War, elderly Colonel Augustine Chastaine brutally slit the throat of his beautiful young wife and then fatally shot himself. The death of Chastaine, however, was not the first suicide of an owner of Cottoncrest Plantation, and it was not to be the last. But was it really a suicide, or was it a double homicide?

"Rubin's gripping debut mystery depicts the bitter racial divides of post-Reconstruction South and its continuing legacy." Publishers Weekly

Meet Mike at B'nai Zion Monday, March 9.

7:00 p.m. Meet and Greet Reception, Half-hour multi-media presentation, Book purchase and signing.

Tu BiSh'vat: Celebrating Trees by Letting Them Rest

Resting is very important to God. God command humans to rest every seven days and required us to even let our animals rest on Shabbat. God also commanded that every seven years our trees and crops need to rest. In the Land of Israel we are supposed to keep the commandment by not planting trees or harvesting their produce for sale. We are allowed to eat what is on the trees, and let animals eat what is already on the trees for the whole year.

Tu B'Sh'vat has been, for millenia, an opportunity for Jews to appreciate trees and all the ways we use them and need them to enhance our life and the wellbeing of our world. They provide food, shelter, oxygen, and are components of so many things we use every day from paper and pencils to musical instruments, and furniture and building materials. We appreciate their shade, enjoy their fruit and nuts.

In a Sh'mita year — every seventh year — we give the trees a rest. Even if we do not live in Israel, even if we don't have trees to harvest, it makes us appreciate the trees even more. In Israel, when they can't plant trees or harvest them, they focus on other things like research about water. The orthodox Rabbis in Israel have deemed that plants grown in hydroponic environments can be harvested, so many religious farmers have increased their hydroponic crops.

At B'nai Zion, our observance of Tu B'Sh'vat will be influenced by the Shmittah year. In the Torah, in addition to giving the trees a rest every seven years, people's debts were erased during the seventh year. It isn't always practical or possible to keep these commandments, but it is always interesting to be aware of them, and study them. Remember the trees, especially on their birthday, which falls February 4 this year, and help us celebrate them during evening service on February 6.

ISJL Education Fellow Weekend Visit

Our Goldring Wolenberg Institute of Southern Jewish Life Education Fellow, Abby Klionsky will join us February 20-22. She will lead Shabbat services and Torah study, do workshops with our teens, meet with our teachers for curriculum enhancement, and work with our students during Religious School.

The Shreveport Jewish Community Religious School uses the ISJL curriculum, which focuses on ten key content areas: Community, Culture and Symbols, God, Hebrew and Prayer, Israel, Jewish History, Jewish Holidays, Jewish Lifecycle Events, Mitzvot and Jewish Values, and Tanach (Torah, Prophets, and Writings). The Education Fellows are well trained, enthusiastic proponents of Jewish learning and Jewish identity.

Please join Abby at Shabbat services and Torah study, and you will understand not only why we love the ISJL curriculum so much, but you will be “re-Jew-venated” by her enthusiasm and knowledge.

Rosh Chodesh: Ladies' Lunch at Eleven

There is a tradition that the beginning of the Jewish month, (called “Rosh Chodesh”) is a special day for women to celebrate. Some women don’t do any housework on Rosh Chodesh (yes, sometimes it pays to be a traditional Jew). The tradition is seen as a reward because women refused to contribute their gold to the building of the Golden Calf in the wilderness. Reform women may not be able to abstain from all work on Rosh Chodesh, but it would be really nice to mark one day a month as a special time to recognize our connection with the moon, the women who came before us, and to set the day apart as an inspiration.

Ladies, bring your own lunch (even if that means a little extra work) to B’nai Zion for lunch with the Rabbi at 11 a.m. on Rosh Chodesh Sh’vat, which falls on February 19. Just watch for the new moon...

For the Local Schools

Please consider bringing the following items to B’nai Zion to help our local schools:

- Campbells labels
- Box Tops for Education labels
- Community Coffee/Tea labels
- Used printer cartridges

We will distribute them for our children to take to their schools, where the school will get credit and sometimes money.

We are also collecting the pull tabs from drink cans.

Kosher for Passover Wines

Cuban Liquor has a variety of Kosher for Passover wines that are so good that you will forget that you have to eat the matzah and maror. Please place your orders for wine before March 6 to be sure you will have it in time for the Seder. Contact Ron Lepow at the store 318-869-1236 or ron@cubanliquor.net.

If You Build It

We dedicated the renovated sanctuary February 2014. It has been a blessing to gather and worship in our new space.

A Thousand Words

Please share your pictures of B'nai Zion events with us, so that we can share them with everyone else in our bulletins and online. We do not post names with pictures for security reasons, but we are happy to give you credit for your photos. Send them to BnaiZionOffice@gmail.com or RabbiJana@gmail.com

World Religion Day

World Religion Day was an interesting opportunity to get to meet people from other religions and learn about religions that our neighbors practice. This year two Rabbi Js sang together. Rabbi Judy Caplan Ginsburgh was a featured musical guest, and she invited

Rabbi Jana to sing with her during her last song. Rabbi Jana was also a panelist for a discussion with clergy from Christian,

Muslim, and Eckankar groups. Many people visited our Judaism table, and appreciated the information and the cookies we shared.

Who Was That Masked Man?

The story of Esther is read every year for Purim. A very brave Jewish woman saves the Jewish people. She doesn't begin the story knowing she will have to be a hero. In fact, she begins by disguising herself — one meaning of the name Esther is "hidden" or "disguised." She hides her Jewish identity. To honor her role in saving Persian Jewry, Jews all over the world disguise ourselves each year and celebrate on Purim. You can wear a costume and be totally unrecognizable. Our new custom/costume is to wear the colors of your favorite sports team — or disguise yourself by wearing the colors of an opposing team.

We will have a crazy fun rendition of Esther's story at services on Friday, March 6 at 6 p.m. followed by a special Oneg Shabbat. Come disguised. Come ready to celebrate. And bring the children — they like to dress in costumes too. Bring noisemakers, or use our graggers.

You can use the same disguises that you wore at the Purim Carnival March 1.

Judaism On One Foot*

Rabbi Jana will continue her intensive Judaism classes February 22 from 2:00-4:00 PM with an intensive class about the Jewish Time: Calendar, Holidays, Life Cycle.

The class is designed for people who want to know more about Judaism — from non-Jews who are curious to life-long Jews who want new understanding.

Tuition is free to members of the Jewish community and $18 for others.

*One of the famous accounts in the Talmud (Shabbat 31a) tells about a gentile who wanted to convert to Judaism. This happened not infrequently, and this individual stated that he would accept Judaism only if a rabbi would teach him the entire Torah while he, the prospective convert, stood on one foot. First he went to Shammai, who, insulted by this ridiculous request, threw him out of the house. The man did not give up and went to Hillel. This gentle sage accepted the challenge, and said:

"What is hateful to you, do not do to your neighbor. That is the whole Torah; the rest is the explanation of this--go and study it!"

Rabbi Jana will teach the explanations in brief lessons — but students can sit.

A Proud Member of the URJ

We are very proud of our colorful and informative bulletin. We receive compliments from people near and far. Although some congregations have chosen to rely on email or online versions instead of printing their bulletins, most congregants have told us that they like to have a copy in their hands to look up events and dates, etc. We are happy to send a copy to each member household as a benefit of membership in B'nai Zion. We would like to suggest that if you are not a member of B'nai Zion, or if you have friends or family to whom you request we send the bulletin, please help us cover the cost of printing and mailing the bulletins. We suggest a donation of $18 per mailing address per year. The bulletin will continue to be posted online for your convenience.

If you prefer not to have a printed copy delivered to you for any reason, please let the office know.

♪ Special thanks to Bogett Printing for helping with our colorful printing needs ♪
