Selichot - Saturday, September 1, 7:30 p.m.

Following a variety of desserts and Havdalah, we will be screening the movie Keep Quiet, which premiered at the 2016 Tribeca Film Festival. Csanád Szegedi was a member of a Hungarian radical nationalist party, who espoused anti-Semitic rhetoric. Then came a revelation which changed his life: Szegedi's maternal grandparents were Jewish and his grandmother a survivor of Auschwitz who, fearing further persecution, hid her religious background. The film follows Szegedi on his three-year journey to embrace Judaism, forced to confront his family's past, his wrongdoing, and his country's turbulent history. But is this change a genuine process of reparation and spiritual awakening, or is he a desperate man with nowhere to turn?
