

Parsha Puzzler (Answer)

A zeret, which measures a half-cubit, is the length and width of the breastplate of the High Priest (Exodus 28:17). This measurement is not used for any other object in the Torah.

A Special Message from Joshua Muravchik

At the conclusion of my mourning period for my beloved mom, I am eager to express my profound gratitude to Aaron Leibel & Jack Katz, the team leaders, and the other stalwarts of the daily minyan--Ernie, Bill, Phil, Barry, Dan and Rabbi Suson--as well as those who come weekly, all of whom together made it possible for me to say Kaddish most days. It would be wonderful if other HTAA members would commit to participating at least once a month, so that there are fewer days when we are unable to assemble a minyan.
