

Torah Teaser (Answer)

Normally, a person is forbidden to shave the hair off his entire body, which could involve the prohibition of cutting off the corners of the head and the corners of the beard (Leviticus 19:27). [It may also involve the prohibition for a man to adopt the practices of a woman, such as shaving parts of the body (Deut. 22:5 with Rashi).] Despite this, the purification of the leper involves shaving off all the hair on his body (Leviticus 14:8-9).
