

End of Life in Israeli Law: The Meeting of Halakhah, Democracy, and Medical Science

A unique opportunity to explore the relationship of halakhah and current medical practice regarding end-of-life questions in Israel and how this might give insight for our lives and communities here.

You are cordially invited to a special presentation by

Rabbi Professor Daniel Sinclair

Professor of Jewish Law and Comparative Biomedical Law

Tuesday, February 10, 2015, 7:30 p.m.

Young Israel of Brookline

62 Green Street, Brookline

Professor Sinclair is distinguished jurist, scholar and medical ethicist. He has lectured widely at Hebrew University, Kings College, London, and Fordham University. He has held the portfolio for medical ethics in the British Chief Rabbi's Cabinet and has consulted internationally of the nexus of Jewish Law and Medical Ethics.

Professor Sinclair is an ordained rabbi and has studied at Israeli yeshivot, including Kerem B'Yavneh and Mercaz Harav Kook. He holds a Ph.D. in Law from Hebrew University where he was awarded the prestigious Jacob Herzog Memorial Prize in Jewish Law.

We would appreciate your RSVP to Hebrew SeniorLife Hospice Care
Brady@hsl.harvard.edu, 781-234-9950

Sponsored by Hebrew SeniorLife Hospice Care in partnership with Young Israel of Brookline;
Maimonides Kehillah, Brookline; Congregation Shaarei Tefilah, Newton Centre;
Congregation Kadimah-Toras Moshe, Brighton; Beit Sasson - Sephardi Congregation of Newton

