

JOB DESCRIPTION

Full-time Rabbi

Who we are:

Congregation Adat Reyim is a welcoming, caring congregation in wooded Fairfax County, Virginia, 15 miles from Washington, D.C. From our name — which means a “community of friends” — to our inclusive approach to Judaism, this is a place you can feel at home. Our independent congregation of 250 households draws on the richness of Jewish tradition and respects the many ways our diverse community members connect to each other and the Divine.

Join us on a Friday night, and you will be personally welcomed. Come on Saturday morning, and you will be offered an honor and invited to lunch. Bring the kids to our religious school, our preschool, a Shabbat Family Jam, a Family & Friends Service, or any service – and they will be part of our family. Enjoy a pot-luck dinner or Adult Education program and share your ideas and perspectives; we will listen. We are committed to social action to support our broader community and our world. Whether you enjoy the traditional harmonies of a choir, or the ruach of our Spirit of Shabbat service with guitars and more, or a moving string quartet sharing Kol Nidre, there is music to inspire you. We are small enough to know each other and large enough to be a thriving community!

Our goal is to hire a full-time rabbi with the following qualifications:

- Engaging spiritual leader who makes Judaism relevant to congregants of every life stage, background, or Jewish journey
- Jewish educator in all ways to all ages, with special emphasis on nurturing younger children and teens
- Compassionate listener
- Ability to foster connections among congregants of diverse backgrounds including interfaith families, LGBTQ members, members with differing abilities, those with various cultural backgrounds and members in the military
