

Young Israel - YU GPATS Community Fellow

In partnership with Yeshiva University's Graduate Program for Advanced Talmudic Studies (GPATS), a program offering women the opportunity to continue their Judaic education at the highest levels, we are privileged to welcome Ms. Sara Rozner into our community to share words of Torah and inspiration over the course of coming year.

We will have the opportunity to host Sara periodically over the coming months. If you would like to host Sara for a meal, please email info@youngisraelwh.org

Sara Rozner graduated from Stern College with a double major in Psychology and Judaic Studies, and is now in her first year at GPATS, a Yeshiva University graduate program for women to learn Talmud and Jewish Law. Originally from Monsey, NY, Sara now lives in Washington Heights, where she is a lay-leader of the Beis Community, an intentional, inclusive Orthodox community that tries to bring more warmth and connection to Jewish experiences. She is also working as a student chaplain in Mount Sinai Hospital, learning to provide spiritual and emotional care to patients and their families. In her spare time, Sara loves to write, sing, rock-climb, and spend as much time as possible outdoors.
