RABBI'S MESSAGE

When I first came to El Paso 29 years ago, I met Henry Kellen. It was a life changing experience. I was here only a few days when he called me and welcomed me to the community. He told me that he wanted to show me some of the places in El Paso. He picked me up at the synagogue and the first place he brought me to was the JCC. As soon as we entered the building, he introduced me to everyone and then directed me to a room in which he had collected several artifacts regarding the Holocaust. This one classroom was the forerunner of today's El Paso Holocaust Museum. I will never forget the passion that Henry exhibited at that initial meeting. To a great extent I might say that the rest is history. I remember vividly the day that we dedicated the El Holocaust Museum in the building next to the JCC. Thanks to the generosity of Louis and Miriam Rosenbaum, I stood with pride next to Henry as tears rolled down his face as Sister Rose Thering of Seton Hall University offered a prayer of universal peace and I chanted the "Shecheyanu" as we placed a Mezuzah on the door of the museum. I recall Henry returning the Torah that was rescued by a farmer during the Holocaust and how Henry gave it to the museum. I will never forget how Henry and I worked together to bring every high school student in El Paso to a private showing of "Schindler's List." Before every presentation of the film, both Henry and I took turns in leading a discussion with the thousands of El Paso students who had never heard of the Holocaust before we created that project. Up until illness prevented Henry from doing so, he came to my class at UTEP to teach the students about his experiences and the significance of the Shoah.

Now I thank God that Sara Hauptman, another hero of mine, continues to speak at UTEP, and also to thousands of El Pasoans in schools, at Ft. Bliss, at churches and other places.

For more than a decade, Henry established a relationship with students at Cochise College in Douglas, AZ. The students would spend a whole day in El Paso, driving 5 hours, come to B'nai Zion where I would teach them about Judaism, followed by lunch at the synagogue, then a visit to the Museum where Henry would speak to them. Not only did they learn so much from Henry, they loved him as a person. These are just a few of the many accomplishments of Henry Kellen.

I speak of him this month because we observe the remembrance of Kristallnacht every November. Henry Kellen was one of those people most responsible for inspiring each of us not to forget Kristallnacht. I speak of Henry this month because we observe Thanksgiving and I thank God for giving me the privilege and honor of having known and being blessed by Henry Kellen. I speak of Henry Kellen this month because I love him and I miss him terribly. Each of us has a responsibility to make sure that we continue his fine work, teaching one another "Never Forget." May we continue, as well, to teach tolerance to the bigoted, love to those that show hatred, kindness to those who hurt, and passion for those who have become indifferent.

We have lost several wonderful members of our congregation recently. They laid the groundwork for us today and for our children and grandchildren. May we continue to be dedicated and active members of our synagogue and community for their sake and for the future of the El Paso Jewish Community. May their memories be for a blessing. Amen.

PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

It is incredible how time really flies. Here we are once again at the beginning of a new year that I hope will be full of joyous moments for all of you. I want to thank Rabbi Leon for creating an exceptional experience for all of us through the beautiful High Holiday services. This is something that we have come to expect from him, however, this time he surprised us with a Yom Kippur sermon that was truly memorable. Many congregation members mentioned to me how pleasantly surprised they were by the voluntary, unrehearsed participation of various members of our congregation during the sermon. They poured out their heart in front of all of us and reminded us of why we are here, why Congregation B'nai Zion is here.

For this year it is my hope that all of us can look into our hearts and find our own personal answers to the following questions: Why is Congregation B'nai

Zion here? What place does our congregation have in my daily secular and spiritual life? What role should I play in building our community? The answers that each of us give to these questions will define the future Congregation B'nai Zion.

I wholeheartedly believe that the future looks bright. I am optimistic because I can see the commitment and the positive response to the call for action from the members of our board and from members of our congregation at large. These are people that see the enormous value of having a vibrant Congregation B'nai Zion and are actively participating in making it happen. Consider this message as a call to join us in the very worthy task of building the Congregation B'nai Zion that we all need and want.

El Paso Holocaust Museum and Study Center

presents:

"Verdi's Requiem: Resistance and Redemption at Terezin – A Holocaust Story

As the last note ended, the famed conductor turned to face the applause of the audience, but he did not bow. Instead, he stood stock-still and proudly straight. Rafael Schachter would perform for the Nazi's, but he would not accept their accolades.

This moving and courageous story will be retold as El Paso Holocaust and Study Center presents Verdi's Requiem: Resistance and Redemption – A Story of the Holocaust on Saturday, November 8, 2014 at 8:00 pm. This very special performance will held at the Plaza Theater and all proceeds raised from the event will support the Museum's mission to educate our community on the dangers of hate and advocate for a more peaceful future.
