Come Together, Right Now—Safely

Friends, the new year is upon us, and I'm looking forward to greeting each of you and your families, whether in our sanctuary or via Zoom. I missed doing that last year, while I was on maternity leave. (And yes, Ayala just turned 1!)

Like you, I'm worried about the Delta variant, and I've spent long hours working with our ReOpening and Ritual Committees to figure out the best intersection of health, safety, and uplift we can craft for Rosh HaShanah and Yom Kippur.

But today, I'm looking past the High Holidays and toward our program year. It's certainly looking like we'll be spending more time together on Zoom, but this year, we are also hoping to utilize our outdoor space effectively. We hosted some beautiful outdoor Kabbalat Shabbat services over the summer, and a few Slide Into Shabbat programs on our playground. It turns out that our parking lot is a fabulous resource for us: add a few outdoor heaters to the mix, and we've got a great space into the winter months and, if we need it, in the spring.

I'm talking outdoor Friday night services as long as we can, outdoor Shabbat dinners in November and December; lighting our outdoor Chanukah menorah; Parking Lot Purim (hopefully without the glitches!); and more. Last year was the Year of Zoom. Perhaps this year can be the year of Parking Lot Programming!

All we need is your participation, and if you're willing, your leadership. Let's get creative and make it happen. Come Together, Right Now!

Nitzan Nursery School News

by Amy SantaLucia

What an amazing summer we had at Nitzan Nursery School – Summer Fun Camp. The campers were kept busy doing art experiences, getting wet in the sprinklers, and playing at the water tables. We were lucky enough to have some new friends join us for the summer and they will be staying on for school as well. A blast was had by all.

Besides being involved with our summer camp, much of my summer was spent preparing for the new school year. My staff and I are always working to create new and innovative ways to challenge our students and get them to love learning and coming to school. We cannot wait to get the new school year rolling!

During the month of September, Nitzan Nursery School will be running our fall Mitzvah project. We will be collecting school supplies to donate to Jewish Family Services. Jewish Family Services will then find students in need and distribute the supplies to them. If you would like to make a donation to our project, there will be a container outside Morah Amy's office in which you may place your supplies. Thank you for helping out a good cause.

Keep an eye out for our Fall Fundraiser. Back by popular demand — Double Good Popcorn. More details to come!!

As summer draws to a close, I can't wait to get the new school year rolling – it is always such an exciting time in the life of an educator. I am eager to meet our new friends and get everyone settled into their new school routines. Many exciting things will be happening at Nitzan!!! Please feel free to stop by and join in the fun!! L'Shana Tova to all.

Do you know any 2, 3 or 4 year olds? Let them know about our wonderful Nitzan Nursery School!

The Disingenuousness of Ben & Jerry's

"We believe it is inconsistent with our values for Ben & Jerry's ice cream to be sold in Occupied Palestinian Territory"

What hypocrisy!

"Although Ben & Jerry's will no longer be sold in the OPT, we will stay in Israel through a different arrangement. We will share an update on this as soon as we are ready."

(It should be noted that this requires the cancellation or non-renewal of a licensing agreement that terminates in December 2022 where the franchisee has a manufacturing facility and two scoop shops south of Tel Aviv.)

David Rapaport, Ben & Jerry's Global Social Mission Officer, stated: "We believe that it's just not consistent with our values to be selling ice cream in an area that is recognized internationally as an illegal military occupation where there is a great disparity of rights and human rights concerns. So, we're staying with that and, as we've stated we plan to stay in Israel as well."

"This action is not anti-Semitic. I am not anti-Semitic," said Ben & Jerry's Board Chair Anuradha Mittal, who also claims to have been subjected to "vile hate," and stated further that she is "proud of Ben & Jerry's for taking a stance to end sale of its ice cream in the Occupied Palestinian Territory."

To be fair, Ben & Jerry's parent corporation, Unilever, has, and may still be, attempting to override the decision by the Board of Ben & Jerry's. In all probability this is quite possibly a business decision to avoid the repercussions of running afoul of various sanctions in the US and elsewhere for companies complying with the BDS (Boycott, Divestment and Sanctions) Movement to delegitimize Israel. Should this state-of-affairs persist many government entities will or could be forced to divest themselves of Unilever, Ben & Jerry's and other subsidiary stocks and bonds issues to Unilever's detriment.

Ben & Jerry's claim that its decision to exit the West Bank market is consistent with its values. Yet its reasoning is replete with hypocrisy and its actions are anti-Semitic, based upon the IMRA working definition when Israel is held to a "higher standard" of behavior, not expected or demanded of other democratic nations.

Does Ben & Jerry's decry the egregious conduct of the Palestinian Authority toward its own people, the denial of a right to vote, the violence and discrimination perpetuated against women and the LGBTQ community, the stifling and opposition to a free press, the cruel and inhumane methods of torture and the death penalty for certain interactions with the Jews or Israel, such as the sale of land or other "treasonous" conduct?

Other than Israel and the United States, has Ben & Jerry's been involved with any other political controversy on the planet? Ben & Jerry's sell their products in the Philippines where a Muslim insurgency has been in process for many years. They sell in the Occupied Turkish Zone of Cyprus. They sell in Ireland whose parliament is seeking to support the BDS policy to delegitimize Israel by the stoppage of all trade. They sell in Poland, Hungary and Lithuania who are attempting to reinvent their relations and certain collaborations with the Nazis during World War II and the Holocaust. They sell their products in Brazil without comment to the repressiveness of the current regime. Israel is certainly being held to a double standard not demanded of other democratic nations. Whatever Board Chair, Anuradha Mittal states, the boycott undertaken by Ben & Jerry's has an anti-Semitic component.

Now let us examine the statements made in support of the boycott by Ben & Jerry's Global Social Mission Officer, David Rapaport. First the West Bank is not an area that is internationally recognized as under an illegal military occupation. The West Bank was occupied during the Six Days War of 1967 and is "legally" occupied until a peace arrangement can be implemented, much like the Israeli-Egyptian peace accord. The "settlements" may or may not be recognized as illegal. The issue is President Obama's failure to exercise a Security Council veto. Certain "settlements" such as the Gush Etzion Bloc and areas of Hebron are recognized, even by the Palestinians in the Oslo Accords as being upon Jewish, JNF or Israeli owned land. Kfar Darom in the Gaza Strip is Jewish owned land currently being occupied by Hamas. By Rapaport's failure to even recognize the terms already negotiated by the Israelis and Palestinians in the West Bank, he is certainly holding Israel to a "higher standard" than other democracies.

Rapaport's other claim that Ben & Jerry's plans to stay in Israel as well is a very subtle defense mechanism to try to ameliorate the looming crises. You must realize that Israeli laws forbid entering into contracts with companies that discriminate against settlements in the "disputed" Palestinian Territories. Therefore, by subterfuge, Ben & Jerry's could well make the disingenuous claim that its boycott of Israel and the Palestinian Territories is, in fact, a boycott of Ben & Jerry's by Israel.
