A Shabbat Message from Reverend Amiel Bender

Shabbat Shalom Anshei TBDJ!

The opening verses of Parashat Vayakhel, the Torah portion of the week, discuss our holy Shabbos, the day of the week that we look forward to for so many reasons: Shul, family, friends, good food, rest...to name a few...

One way to keep our Shabbos spirits elevated is to celebrate Kabbalat Shabbat, the opening prayers of our Friday evening service, with song. This segment of the service features six chosen psalms from the Book of Tehillim which symbolize the six days of our week. The service moves on to L'cha Dodi which culminates in welcoming the Shabbos queen through song.

After being informed last Friday that TBDJ would be closed until further notice, emptiness set in. Friday evening is my favorite Shabbos time. The singing in shul which speaks to my musical soul, the special Shabbos meal at home with my beloved family, the Shabbos candles adding to the beautiful aura of the room and so much more... Wow! Not to be in shul on Shabbos!?! Especially on Friday evening when we welcome Shabbos musically? I needed a connection to shul and I decided to daven outside on the steps of TBDJ. It was cold and windy and following Mincha I returned to the house where my boys were putting on their coats to join me outside. We stayed in and our family welcomed Shabbos together, singing the psalms of Kabbalat Shabbat, L'cha Dodi and more.

As we unfortunately cannot congregate in shul Friday evenings, I invite one and all to uplift, elevate and enhance your Kabbalat Shabbat at home with songs and nigunim. With that in mind, I am available to help everyone select adaptable tunes for davening!

I look forward to webcasting a live musical segment for you next Tuesday afternoon as I survey some of the beautiful music of the Pesach Haggadah's liturgy.

Shabbat Shalom,
Rev. Amiel
