INTRODUCTION TO UNITY DAY

In the summer of 2014, three Israeli boys were kidnapped by terrorists while returning home from school. In the immediate wake of this news, Jews from all around the world came together in an unprecedented display of common purpose to search, pray and offer support to the three families. This remarkable sense of unity reached its peak when the three boys were discovered and hours later buried alongside one another.

At the conclusion of the shiva for her son Naftali z'l, Rachelli Fraenkel, said; "The legacy of the life and the death of Naftali, Gil-ad and Eyal is a legacy of love, of humanity, of national unity."

On June 3, 2015 the 16th of Sivan, as we mark the passage of one year from the time of this national tragedy, we will recreate the sense of unity by coming together to focus on this eternal value of unity
