A story is told about the Lubavitcher Rebbe when he was arrested by the secrete police. When he was taken to prison one of the officers put a gun to his head. The Rebbe said to him "That little toy can only frighten a person who believes in only one world and many gods, I have one G-d and two worlds. Put it away, you don't scare me." In Tehillim 118:6 King David says "G-d is with me, I have no fear, how can man affect me". A person who does not fear other people and fears only G-d, stands up for his principles and for what he believes in, without surrendering to intimidation, is truly a Gibbor, a powerful person.
