Summer Father/Son Learning

Please join us for a summer Father/Son Learning program in the upstairs Beis Medrash on Shabbos afternoons from 5 to 6 pm.

Bring your son. Bring your son's son. Bring your nephew. Bring the boy next door. Everyone is welcome to come and learn. Summer snacks and cool refreshments will be provided. To sponsor this event, please sign up through the shul website on the Donations and Payments page.

For more info, please contact Saul Passe at vp-programming@tiferesyisroel.org.

Power to the People

Get up. Get into it. Get involved.

The entire kehilla is encouraged to express their opposition to Congress regarding the Iran nuclear deal. To voice your opinion, simply give our local senators and representatives a call, and together, b'ezras Hashem, we can make a difference:

Senator Ben Cardin: 202-224-4524
Senator Barbara Mikulski: 202-224-4654
Rep. John Sarbanes: 202-225-4016
Rep. Elijah Cummings: 202-225-4741

A big yasher koach to Democratic Senator Charles Schumer and Representative Eliot Engel of New York, who, despite tremendous political pressure from the White House, are planning to vote against the Iran nuclear deal.

Shalosh Seudos Sponsors

Thank you to the following sponsors for the shalosh seudos in honor of our guest rabbis:

- Rabbi and Rebbetzin Goldberger
- Lenny and Glenna Ross
- Eli and Lena Flemingier
- Lev Avraham and Rachel Rosenstock
- Mordechai Beleck
- Jerry and Elka Rottman

Yom Tov Seating

Before we know it, the Yomim Nora'im will be upon us, and the time has come to place your order for Yom Tov seats.

Our membership year began on July 1. If you were a shul member this past year, we assume you are continuing with membership and that you have already been billed for the coming year. You can meet that obligation by paying off your membership in full or by establishing a monthly payment plan.

If you have established a log-in on the shul website, you can request seating at High Holiday Seating. If not, you may go to the shul website at <http://www.tiferesyisroel.org/high-holiday-seats.html>, or you can look on the shul's website under "Membership, High Holiday Seating."

If you have any questions, please call Ari Blum at 410-358-5478. Many thanks for your participation in this process, and best wishes for a happy and healthy 5776.

This week's Lev Echad is in honor of:

Our three guest rabbis, Rabbi Dovid Safier, Rabbi Tzvi Naftalowitz and Rabbi Yankie Nissan. Thank you for all of the limud Torah that you brought to our shul and for inspiring us to grow spiritually in our Torah, mitzvos and avodas Hashem. Yasher koach!

The Weekly Parsha

Parshas Re'eh

By Rabbi Ozer Alport

“If there shall be a destitute person among you, any of your brethren ... you shall not harden your heart or close your hand against your destitute brother. Rather, you shall open your hand to him; you shall lend him his requirement, whatever is lacking to him.” (15:7-8)

The Torah exhorts us to have mercy and compassion upon our poor brethren. The Gemora (Bava Basra 10a) records that the wicked Roman nobleman Turnus Rufus once asked Rabbi Akiva, “If your G-D cares for poor people so much, why does He not provide for them?” Rabbi Akiva answered that Hashem allows them to remain poor to provide us the merit of giving them charity, which will protect us from punishment.

The Alter of Kelm questions Rabbi Akiva’s explanation. Although the mitzvah of giving tzedakah is certainly a great one, aren’t there enough other commandments that we can do to save us from punishment? What is so unique and special about giving charity, and why must the poor suffer to enable us to specifically perform this mitzvah?

The Alter explains that the mitzvah of tzedakah serves an irreplaceable function. Although one fulfills the technical letter of the law by distributing charity to those in need, in order to perform this mitzvah at its highest level a person must do more than this. It isn’t sufficient to give charity simply because Hashem commanded us to do so and we want to perform His will. A person dispersing tzedakah should feel the pain and plight of the poor beggar as if it were his very own. Just as a person who feels his own hunger naturally responds by feeding himself, so too should we strive to identify with the pauper’s anguish to the point that we would be moved to assist him even if we weren’t obligated to do so.

Rav Eliyahu Chaim Meisels, the Rav of Lodz in Poland, was renowned for his concern for the poor and downtrodden. On one fierce winter day, he knocked on the door of a wealthy, but stingy, man in his town to solicit a donation. After exchanging greetings, the man gestured that Rav Meisels should enter, but he remained outside and began his appeal. The rich man was puzzled by the Rav’s behavior, but he attempted to listen out of respect. After a few minutes he grew so cold that he was unable to continue. He interrupted the Rav and begged him to come inside.

The sagacious Rav explained, “I am here to collect money for a family which can’t even afford to build a fire on a day like today. If we enter your warm home, you won’t be able to relate to their suffering. Only by discussing their plight here at your door are you able to understand the magnitude of their pain.” Appreciating both the Rav’s great wisdom as well as the extent of the family’s anguish, the miser gave a generous donation.

It is difficult for most of us to relate to the daily suffering that many of our brethren unfortunately know. Now that we understand that empathizing with their plights is an integral part of giving tzedakah, we should try our utmost, whether by volunteering at a soup kitchen or by walking through the park on a bitter winter night, to work on personally experiencing and feeling their pain. Our desire to generously assist them will naturally follow, and in so doing, we will be helping not only the poor but also ourselves.

“Rather, you shall open your hand to him; you shall lend him his requirement, whatever is lacking to him.” (15:8)

As mentioned above, the Torah exhorts us to be merciful and compassionate toward the poor, commanding us not to close our hand to the destitute, but rather to open it. This statement seems redundant. If it is forbidden to close our hand to the poor, doesn’t it go without saying that we are required to open it? What is the Torah trying to teach us by emphasizing this point?

The Vilna Gaon explains that although a person is obligated to give tzedakah, he is not supposed to disperse it equally to each poor person. There are laws governing to whom one must give precedence when distributing charity, such as family members or people in his community, and the needs of each pauper must be assessed when determining how much to give them.

The Torah alludes to the requirement to take these considerations into account when giving tzedakah. When a person closes his hand and looks at his fingers, they all appear equal in length. Opening one’s hand reveals that this is not the case, as each finger is a different size.

The Torah already commanded us to be merciful to our needy brethren. Our verse takes for granted that we will help meet their needs and is not coming to repeat this point, as it seems at first glance. Rather, it comes to teach that the manner in which we do so should not be one in which we indiscriminately give equal amounts to each beggar, as symbolized by a closed hand. Instead, we should open our hands and realize that each poor person’s needs as well as our obligation to him aren’t the same, and we should disperse our charity accordingly.

From the Rabbi and Rebbetzin

Dear Kehilla HaKedoshah,

We would like to extend an invitation to the entire kehilla for the upcoming simcha of the wedding of our dear son, Mordechai, to Mori Gerstenfeld, daughter of Eric and Elaine Gerstenfeld. We would be honored by your presence for the chuppah and buffet reception at Martin’s West on August 30th at 5 pm.

Whenever we make a family simcha, our intention is always to include everyone in the kehilla. If for some reason an omission occurs, we ask that people be understanding and give us the benefit of the doubt. Please share any omissions with discretion and compassion, so that we are better able to make any necessary corrections.

Often there are changes in addresses and membership status from simcha to simcha, and we spend much time and effort to make sure that our list is up-to-date. Sometimes there are mistakes made by the postal service as well, which we often experience firsthand when we receive other people’s mail and vice versa.

We appreciate your understanding, and we apologize that not all of the invitations we sent out arrived at their destination. Please let us know if you have not yet received an invitation, and we will happily try again. Or you may simply RSVP by emailing your response to greporting@verizon.net. We look forward to sharing our simcha together!

Rabbi and Rebbetzin Menachem Goldberger

Thoughts on Teshuvah

As we enter the month of Elul, the blasts of the shofar awaken us to do teshuvah, and we prepare ourselves for the Yomim Nora’im. I am currently learning the Rambam’s “Hilchos Teshuvah” with my rebbe from the kollel, Rabbi Shragi Baumgarten. The Rambam defines teshuvah in three simple steps: “owning” your mistakes, feeling remorse, and resolving to not repeat them. Sounds easy? Not so! More often than not, we all tend to “fall into the trap” of repeating our mistakes again and again, and then we find ourselves having to repeat the teshuvah process again and again! Why does this happen, and how do we stop?

Last week at the “Malchus Shlomo” shiur, I heard a beautiful insight from Rabbi Yankee Nissan in the name of his holy grandfather, HaRav Shlomo Twerski, zt”l. Although a person may truly resolve in his heart to not repeat his mistakes, he tends to only focus on correcting the action, but does not address the root of the problem, the real cause behind the action. But if we can get to "the root of it," and make our corrections there, then we are more likely to not repeat the mistakes ever again. This, I think, is real teshuvah. May we all be zoche to spend these next forty days improving our middos and doing "real teshuvah," and may Hashem inscribe and seal us all for "a good life and for peace."

Want to Be a "Minyanaire"?!

Want to impress your Creator? Looking for a way to increase your "spiritual equity"?

Come join the TY minyan. We are looking for a few (10+) good men ages 13-120 to join our daily minyan. Shacharis is at 6:30 am during the week, 8:30 am on Shabbos, and 8 am on Sundays. Mincha/Maariv begins 10 minutes before shkia; please check the seasonal davening schedule or the Lev Echad for exact times.

Help the Gush Katif Evacuees

This year Tisha B'Av marked the tenth anniversary of the expulsion from Gush Katif. While we cannot solve the injustice that was committed to these people, nor right the wrongs of the past, we can unite together and do what we can to help support our fellow Jews.

Our shul, along with many others, is trying to take responsibility for just one Gush Katif evacuee. By doing so, we can help repair one of the most painful chapters in modern Jewish history. Let us pray that the dignity we pledge to accord them will be a zechus for us all in these perilous times. Anything that you can do to help is greatly appreciated.

Please send your donation with "JobKatif" in the memo line to: Shomrei Emunah Israel Fund, 6221 Greenspring Avenue, Baltimore, MD 21209, or donate online on the Shomrei Emunah website. Mention that the donation came from Congregation Tiferes Yisroel.

Walking to Sinai Hospital on Shabbos?

If you are walking on Shabbos or Yom Tov to Sinai Hospital, Levindale or any other distant destination, please stop at 3000 Glen Avenue (corner Key Avenue) or 5932 Cross Country Blvd (corner Simmonds Avenue) to rest your feet and have a cold drink. Wishing you a safe and healthy summer.

Used Book Sale

Our used book sale is located upstairs outside the Bais Medrash. All proceeds go to the shul. Most titles are still $5 or less. For more information or to donate gently used Jewish books, please contact Steve Schwarz at simchamelech@aol.com or call 410-446-8330. Thank you for supporting your shul.
