- 7:30 pm: Father/Son Learning.

Used Book Sale

Our used book sale is located upstairs outside the Bais Medrash. All proceeds go to the shul. Most titles are still $5 or less. For more information or to donate gently used Jewish books, please contact Steve Schwarz at simchamelech@aol.com or call 410-446-8330. Thank you for supporting your shul.

Father/Son Learning

Starting this motsei Shabbos, and running through the rest of the winter, the shul will be hosting Father/Son Learning in the upstairs Beis Medrash from 7:30 to 8:30 pm.

Bring your son. Bring your son's son. Bring your nephew. Bring the boy next-door. Everyone is welcome to come and learn. Pizza and refreshments will be provided. Weekly sponsorship is appreciated; you can give your sponsorship through the shul website, the Donations page.

For any questions regarding the program, or for sponsorship, please contact Dov Pear at president@tiferesyisroel.org.

Women's Navi Shiur

Rabbi Goldberger will be giving his Navi shiur for women on Sunday nights from 8:00 to 9:00 pm in the Nancy Taffel Annex. This week only the shiur will start at 8:15 pm. The Rabbi will be continuing from Shmuel Aleph, Perek Chaf. All women are invited and encouraged to attend; please bring a sefer if you have one.

Want to Be a "Minyanaire"?!

Want to impress your Creator? Looking for a way to increase your "spiritual equity"?

Come join the TY minyan. Now that we are davening early Mincha/Maariv, we are looking for a few (10+) good men ages 13-120 to join our early minyan. To become a Mincha/Maariv Minyanaire, please contact Mordechai Beleck at 410-764-3325, and he will add you to the list. Shacharis is at 6:30 am during the week, 8:30 am on Shabbos, and 8:00 am on Sundays. Early Mincha/Maariv begins 10 minutes before shkia; please check the seasonal davening schedule or the Lev Echad for exact times.

Remember, here at TY we are a family, and "a family that prays together, stays together"! Extra credit if you are one of the first ten in shul to daven.

Timeline of the Tamid

Please come join us for a pre-Chanukah presentation, "Timeline of the Tamid," a slideshow presentation on the daily Tamid offering featuring computer models and animations of the Second Temple by Rabbi Yoav Elan, an editor for Artsroll and a leading expert on the Beis HaMikdash. The event will be here at the shul on Monday evening, November 30, from 7:30 to 8:30 pm. Men, women and teens are invited to attend.

Women's Tehillim Group

The Women's Tehillim Group meets every Sunday at 10 am in the Nancy Taffel Annex. Please join us when you can.

Mazel Tov to

- Dvora Balaban and Eliezer Sherman on their marriage last Thursday night here at the shul. May they be zoche to build a bayis ne'eman b'Yisroel.
- Howard and Dvora Sora Reznick on the birth of a grandson, born to Yitz and Avigayil Pierce of Detroit. Mazel tov to the great-grandfather, Mr. Victor Reznick. May they be zoche l'hachniso bivriso shel Avraham Avinu bizmano l'gadlo l'Torah l'chuppah ul'maasim tovim.

TY Sisterhood 5776 Kick-Off Event

Please join the women of the TY Sisterhood for a Melava Malka on November 28, motsei Shabbos, from 7:45 to 10:00 pm. The program will feature original singer/songwriter/guitar player Chani Levy, and we will be writing letters of love and support to our brothers and sisters in Eretz Yisroel to give them chizuk. The event will be in the downstairs Simcha Hall at TY, and the admission is free. Light refreshments will be served.

We are looking for volunteers to make a delicious parve soup, and to help with the set-up and clean-up. To volunteer or to RSVP, please contact Elka Rottman at 410-358-5427 or elkarottman@gmail.com, or simply register on the shul website Events page.

This week's Lev Echad is in honor of:

Rebbetzin Ida Goldberger, for gracing our kehilla with her presence and for raising the spiritual level of the Ezras Nashim by her dignity and bearing.

The Weekly Parsha

Parshas Toldos

By Rabbi Zvi Akiva Fleisher

"Chassidic Insights"

"Avraham begot Yitzchak" (25:19)

Avraham symbolizes mercy, while Yitzchok symbolizes strict judgment. Even this strict judgment is an outgrowth of mercy, "Avraham holid es Yitzchak." (Baal Shem Tov)

"And she went to inquire of Hashem" (25:22)

Rashi says that Rivka went to Shem to find out "mah t'hei b'sofoh." Rivka thought that she was carrying only one child who showed signs of pursuing both the holy and the profane. Many people have ups and downs in their lifetime. She asked Shem what would be the outcome of this vacillating child. He answered that there would be no vacillation. She was bearing twins, one of whom would be a righteous person his whole life and the other evil his whole life. (Rabbi Simchah Bunim of Parshizcha in Kol Simchah)

"...just listen to my voice and go get them for me" (27:13)

Since Yaakov was afraid to impersonate Esav, Rivka told him he would surely be successful if he would "only do this for the sake of listening to your mother, and not to wrest the blessings out of your brother's hands, or to outdo him." (Alshich Hakodosh)

Know Your Shul Members-

Rebbetzin Ida Goldberger in her own words

I am so happy to be living in Baltimore with my wonderful family. My daughter-in-love, Bracha, cares for me deeply and sees to my every need. A couple of very nice women my age have come by. One of them is finding me a bridge game. I joined the JCC, and I'm doing chair yoga. I think Baltimore is a wonderful community. My daughter, Debbie Beren, lives in Monsey with her husband Dovid, and I visit them often.

I miss my close friend, my darling Charlene, but she passed away. She was very sick when I was leaving Denver; that's the only reason I didn't want to leave.

I was born in Chicago. I went to the University of Chicago, and I met my husband-to-be, the future Rabbi Daniel Goldberger, the second day he came to school.

I was the only Jewish girl in my high school class; there was one Jewish boy. I decided that, as I was the only Jewish girl, I was going to be valedictorian and get a scholarship. I got a scholarship to the University of Chicago. That was fortuitous, as I met my future husband there. I had already been there three months; the University was on three-month periods instead of semesters. He wore a yarmulke. My cousin Harold Patinkin, who was also there, saw this young man and went over and introduced himself. After talking with him for a while, he said, "I want you to meet my cousin, Ida Patinkin."

Our first date, we went roller skating. That was the beginning of our courtship. We didn't get married for five years, because he was also studying in yeshiva to become a rabbi, at Bais Medrash L'Torah (HTC) on the West Side, carrying a double load. He had to go back and forth between the West Side and the South Side. At that time, hitchhiking was acceptable, and that's what he did. Nobody could afford a car.

Should I say it was love at first sight? For me, anyway. He complained about the food at the yeshiva: "Can you believe they serve tomato herring every day? I can't stand to look at it." I offered to bring him sandwiches—"My mother keeps a kosher kitchen." They say the way to a man's heart is through his stomach. So that's what he got: peanut butter and jelly sandwiches.

He grew up in Altoona, Pennsylvania. His father was a rabbi in Altoona.

My parents, Sam and Eva Patinkin a"h, met in Chicago. They both came from Poland alone, my mother when she was only 16. My mother's mother opened a produce store when she came over. I remember, when I was single at home, my mother used to clean like crazy [for Pesach]. She got on a ladder; there was something they had that you put on the wall to clean the wallpaper. I said, "Mother, what are doing that for?"

She said, "You don't understand." When she was young, they were so poor, they could just put white sand down to cover the dirt floor. They had to borrow beets and turnips from the neighbors; they didn't have enough to eat. "That's why this is so important." Then I understood.

I loved the museums and the culture in Chicago. The University of Chicago was wonderful. I loved being part of that. I was very fortunate that I got to go. Most of my father's brothers didn't believe in girls going to college, but my father stood up for me: "If my Ida wants to go to college, she's going to go to college." It wasn't easy, because money was scarce at that time, but as I had a partial scholarship we were able to swing that.

My major was something that was not beneficial for earning a living: English literature. My father said, "Okay, but you have to take shorthand and typing so you can do secretarial work." I did that during the summer for doctors, and that helped me continue school. My father was a very wise man.

The Patinkin family is quite well known in Chicago for theater. My cousin Mandy Patinkin is a singer-actor [whom readers may recognize as Inigo Montoya in The Princess Bride]. My brother Sheldon was one of the originators of Second City [legendary comedy venue] in Chicago and in Canada. Because Yehuda Leib has such a beautiful voice, we wanted to know where the voice came from. My cousin in Israel looked up the family and found that my Patinkin grandfather was a chazzan in Europe. Unfortunately, both of my brothers died last year. It was hard losing both of them.

When I was growing up, we had a rabbi who did not like children, and I told my parents, "I'm never going to marry a rabbi!" I had to eat my words. My husband was so helpful, and I was a very social person anyway, so it worked out.

When we moved to Denver, there was just a plot of land that a few men had bought together. They wanted to get a rabbi to start a congregation, and they came to the yeshiva and said, "Send your best graduate." They sent my husband.

The other congregation in town said, "We don't need another congregation." We went anyway, and within three years we had a shul, a Hebrew school, and a congregation with 600 families. My husband helped build the first Orthodox day school in Denver. He was criticized for supporting a day school when their synagogue already had an afternoon Hebrew school. He caught a lot of flak, but he didn't care. We sent our kids to the day school, Hillel Academy. The day school flourished, really.

I taught third grade at Hillel Academy for five years. Then I taught a little girl, and I didn't understand what was happening with her; she was reading everything backwards. I talked to her mother and learned about dyslexia. I worked with her all year and got her through third grade. I got so turned on, I wanted to go back to school and get a degree in special education. My principal, Rabbi Israel Rosenfeld z"l, said, "Ida, do it." I was 40 years old.

I went back and got a master's in special ed and taught until I was 70. I really enjoyed teaching special ed. It's a very important vocation. I worked with one little boy who was paralyzed except for his head. They strapped a pencil to his head so he could write. I always wondered about him, and then one day, someone showed me a newspaper article that showed him in his wheelchair next to a girl in a wheelchair, and they were getting married. I was so happy!

I loved being a rebbetzin. We had a very strong sisterhood. I really worked on that. We put on plays, carnivals—we did them all. My husband was out almost every night. That was a difficulty, and hard on the children, too, to have Daddy away so much. But that's the life of a rabbi. To this day, I run into people, even in my son's shul, who remember my husband and tell me a story about how he helped them. He was such a helpful rabbi.

And so is my son! I think he walked in his father's footsteps. He just took to it. It was a natural for him. Of course I'm very proud of him. My husband was not Chassidic; my son is Chassidic. But in their ways of handling the rabbinate, I think they're very similar. They are people persons.

Rabbi Menachem is our sixth generation Goldberger rabbi.

I have often gotten up and said that my son and daughter-in-law have the best shul in the United States of America: the warmth, the friendship, the camaraderie, my son's rabbinical presence in the shul; my daughter-in-law is an outstanding rebbetzin; everyone gleans something from my son's sermons. I feel very privileged to live here and attend my children's shul.

Men's Beis Medrash Program

- Coming soon is the TY Fall/Winter Men's Beis Medrash Program. The program will be in the upstairs Beis Medrash and run from 8:00 to 9:00 pm. #### Yahrzeits

Giving tzedakah in the name of the departed has the power to elevate their soul. When you give charity on behalf of your loved one, consider giving to Tiferes Yisroel. And may the soul of your loved one be bound in the bond of life, together with the souls of Avraham, Yitzchak and Yaakov; Sarah, Rivka, Rachel and Leah; and together with the other righteous men and women in Gan Eden.
