Women’s Tehillim

The Women’s Tehillim group meets every Sunday at 10:00 am in the Nancy Taffel Annex. All women are invited and encouraged to attend; we need your help to make this happen.

Want to Be a “Minyanaire”?!

Want to impress your Creator? Looking for a way to increase your “spiritual equity”? Come join the TY minyan. We are looking for a few (10+) good men ages 13-120 to join our daily minyan. Shacharis is at 6:30 am during the week, 8:30 am on Shabbos, and 8:00 am on Sundays. Mincha/Maariv begins 10 minutes before shkia, followed by Men’s Beis Medrash Learning, Monday through Thursday nights; please check the seasonal davening schedule or the Lev Echad for exact times. Extra credit if you are one of the first ten in shul to daven.

Shabbos Shiur

This week’s Shabbos shiur will be given by Rabbi Elie Levi, entitled, “The Truth about Lying,” a look at areas in life where bending the truth is somewhat permitted. The shiur for men, women and teens; everyone is invited and encouraged to attend.

Support Rabbi Goldberger’s Team at JCN Race

Help support the JCN and Rabbi Goldberger’s team by signing up to run or walk, or by giving a donation to our team. Please go to www.wizathon.com/jcn5krun-women and look for Rabbi Goldberger’s team. For any questions or more information, please contact our team captain, Chava Schwartz, at chavadrive@gmail.com.

Kiddush

Moshe and Shaina Margolese invite the entire kehillah to a kiddush this Shabbos at their home, 3912 Pinkney Road, in honor of their daughter, Atara Rivka, following davening.

TY Online Shiurim Library

Check out the TY audio library with compelling and insightful shiurim from Rabbi Goldberger in Derech Hashem, Sfas Emes, Malchus Shlomo, Mesilas Yesharim, and more. To listen, simply go to our website under Shiurim and Classes - Audio Library Archive.

Thank You

This week’s special thank you goes out to the entire kehillah for their contribution to the all-night learning on Shavuot night. Thank you to Rabbi Elie Levi, Nossi Gross and Rabbi Goldberger for leading the shiurim. Thank you to Rebbetzin Goldberger for the delicious cheesecake. Thank you to Mo Margolese for beautifying the shul with flowers. Yasher koach!

Mazel Tov to

- Eitan Press in Eretz Yisroel on his engagement to Shira Le Roux. May they be zoche to build a bayis ne’eman b’Yisroel.
- Scott and Sandy Parsowith on the naming and the bris of their twin grandchildren, Yehuda Leib and Tova Rus, born to Penina and Hillel Shepherd. May they be zoche l’gadlam l’Torah l’chuppah ul’masim tovim.

New FOCUS Program

We will be beginning our new year-long TY FOCUS program- “Strengthening our Shul Community from Within.” This exciting new program has three objectives:

Davening with the Shul Minyan: Come join the TY Minyanaires for weekday and Shabbos davening and give our minyan a boost.

Attending a Shiur: What do you want to learn? We will be asking for your input and suggestions to offer compelling shiurim.

Children’s Programs: We are looking to strengthen our kehillah by creating more inclusive activities for kids and their parents, including a new playground.

The goal is to increase the vibrancy of our kehillah through group participation from our shul members - to put the “U” in SHUL. Building our daily minyan begins today; all shul members will be receiving a form for you to add your suggestions for the shiurim and programming. Everyone is invited to participate in this exciting new shul program.

This week’s Lev Echad is in honor of:

The shul’s new FOCUS program. May we be zoche to grow closer as a kehillah by strengthening our davening, Torah learning and programming.

The Weekly Parsha

Parshas Nasso

By Rabbi A. Leib Scheinbaum

“May Hashem bless you and guard you” (6:24)

The commentators offer a number of explanations in interpretation of this pasuk. In his Haamek Davar, The Netziv, zl, observes that v'yishmirecha, “and (He will) guard you,” is inextricably tied to yivarechicha, “(may Hashem) bless you.” Every blessing can, without the proper direction, be transformed into a curse. Therefore, when we pray for rain, we conclude, livrachah v'lo likallah, “for a blessing and not for a curse.” We are acutely aware that every blessing, if it is not guarded, can become the source of curse. It can become its beneficiary’s worst nightmare.

This idea applies to every individual, regardless of his vocation. The ben Torah who is truly blessed must see to it that this blessing does not go to his head, and that he is extremely careful not to cause a chillul Hashem, desecration of Hashem’s Name. This is a distinct possibility, especially in light of the fact that his actions are meticulously scrutinized by a world society that is not necessarily sympathetic to his way of life. The one who is blessed with material abundance must also take extreme care not to allow the power generated by his wealth to go to his head. The classic case in the Torah is Korach, whose wealth played a critical role in his downfall.

Horav Yitzchak Zilberstein, Shlita, relates that a young boy once approached him during the Tashlich prayer on Rosh Hashanah and pointed to the Machzor which contained the prayer written by the Chida, l'hamtik dinim takifin, “May this sweeten the harsh judgment.” What is the meaning of “sweetening the harsh judgment”? If it is sweet, it is not harsh; and if it is harsh, it is not sweet. Rav Zilberstein explained that the Chida, who was a holy mystic, clearly had some profound kavanos in mind when he authored this prayer. Nonetheless, he gave a practical explanation based upon the following story. The Avnei Nezer, who was the rav of Sochatchav, was succeeded by his son, the Shem MiShmuel. Both were great tzaddikim, righteous persons, whose knowledge of the length and breadth of the Torah was phenomenal. The Avnei Nezer had a chassid who was very devout and dedicated to his Rebbe. Sadly, he and his wife had not been blessed with children. Every time he went to the Rebbe, he entreated him for a blessing to have children. For reasons unbeknownst to the chassid, the Rebbe demurred from granting a blessing. Regardless of how often the chassid asked for a blessing, the answer was always no.

The chassid looked for a moment in which the Avnei Nezer would be in a moment of spiritual elevation, when his sense of joy would be intense. He felt that at such a time he might be able to convince the Rebbe to grant him a blessing. It was Simchas Torah, and the Rebbe had danced fervently, his face was aglow with a sense of profound deveikus, clinging to Hashem. The joy in the room was palpable. This was clearly a propitious time to petition the Rebbe for a blessing. The chassid approached the Rebbe and said, “Rebbe, I am not leaving this place until the Rebbe grants my wish. I need a blessing to have children.”

The Rebbe looked deep into the chassid’s eyes and said, “Do you want me to bless you with a son who will become a priest?” When the chassid heard this, his face became ashen. The Rebbe had perceived with Ruach HaKodesh, Divine Inspiration, that the child he was destined to have would apostatize himself and eventually become a priest. This is why he had refused to bless him. He no longer asked the Avnei Nezer for a blessing to have children.

A while later, after the Avnei Nezer’s passing from this world, his son became Rebbe. The Shem MiShmuel was acutely aware of the chassid’s overwhelming pain. He knew how much it meant to him to be blessed with a child. That year on Simchas Torah, after the Rebbe had finished dancing and effusing great joy, he motioned to the chassid to approach. “I would like to bless you that this year will be the year that you will become a father!” the Rebbe enthusiastically declared.

The chassid stood there speechless. He not only refrained from responding with a resounding Amen, but to avoid affirming the blessing, he actually turned ashen and appeared ready to faint. The Shem MiShmuel noticed this reaction, or lack thereof, and asked why he did not answer Amen to the blessing? Furthermore, why did he look like he was about to pass out?

The chassid was not about to conceal from the Shem MiShmuel the nevuah his father had divulged to him. He explained that once the Avnei Nezer had told him that his son to be born would end up as a priest, the subject of children was closed. This was not why he had wanted a child.

The Shem MiShmuel listened, thought for a moment, nodded his head, and said, “Nonetheless, I want you to be blessed.” The chassid responded, “Amen.” Five children were born to the chassid and his wife. Four tragically perished in the infernos of the Holocaust. One survived, to establish a beautiful family of talmidei chachamim, Torah scholars, G-d fearing children and grandchildren, who continue to serve as a nachas to Klal Yisrael. How did he survive? Apparently, he was fluent in a number of languages, and he disguised himself as an Italian priest. Using his disguise, he was able to elude detection and survived the Holocaust.

Clearly, Heaven had issued a harsh judgment against the chasid, but the Shem MiShmuel was able to “sweeten it.” The son appeared to be a priest - but he was not.

The Torah’s Unsung Hero

The final chapter in Parshas Nasso details the offerings brought by the twelve tribal leaders after Moshe had completed the building and sanctification of the Mishkan. Each day a different leader brought an identical offering; according to the Midrash, each offering alluded to the special mission of its tribe, so that each was unique in its spiritual essence (Artscroll Stone Chumash). Although the order of the Nasi'im was according to the order in which the tribes traveled through the Midbar (Rashi), it’s hard to imagine that it was merely a coincidence that the first offering was brought by Nachshon ben Amminadav, the Nasi of the tribe of Yehudah.

It was Nachshon who had complete faith and trust in Hashem, and was the first to plunge into the sea by Krias Yam Suf leading the rest of Klal Yisroel and thereby becoming an instant ‘national hero.’ I believe that it was in this zechus that he was “chosen” by G-d to bring the first offering, as the pasuk states: “The one who brought his offering on the first day was Nachshon ben Amminadav, of the tribe of Yehudah” (Bamidbar 7:12). The Ohr HaChaim notes that “The term ‘his offering’ expresses the uniqueness of Nachshon, for it is not found with relation to any of the other leaders. Nachshon was the most outstanding of the leaders, so the Torah stresses that he brought his offering. In addition, only Nachshon is not given the title leader in the introductory verses of his offering, because his modesty was such that he considered himself to be no better than any other member of his tribe.”

Rashi identifies this “first day” of offerings as the first of Nissan, and states, “That day took ten crowns: 1- the first day of Creation, 2- the first day of the offerings brought by the tribal leaders, 3- the first day of the assumption of the priesthood (kehunah), 4- the first day of the regular Altar service, 5- the first day that fire descended from Heaven onto the Altar, 6- the first day of the restriction that offerings be eaten on the grounds of the Mishkan only, 7-the first day of the prohibition against bringing offerings onto private altars, 8- the first day of the first month of the year, 9- the first day that the Shechinah rested among Israel in the Mishkan, and 10- the first day that the Kohanim delivered the priestly blessing.” It seems most fitting that our unsung hero was the one to bring his offering on this special “first day,” and was zoche to “wear” these ten crowns as he stood before Hashem with his karbonos.

I happened to notice as I read Megillas Rus this year that Nachshon ben Amminadav is mentioned in the final pasukim that lists the genealogy of David HaMelech. Nachshon was the grandfather of Boaz, and the great-great-great grandfather of David. Again, it’s no surprise that Moshiach will come from the Davidic line that began with Yehudah, and was passed down through the generations of greatness including the Torah’s “unsung hero,” Nachshon ben Amminadav. A gutten Shabbos.
