Shul Security Alert

- We are currently using one entrance and exit for regular use. That door is the front door (facing Park Heights Avenue). All other doors will be locked. If you do enter or exit through a locked door, please make sure to lock it afterward.
- If you see something, say something to any of the board members, and they will happily assess any situation that you feel is unsettling that might prove a security issue.
- We have installed cameras throughout the inside and outside of the building.
- We have improved the lighting around the building.
- We have installed a panic button alarm system. In the event of an emergency, we can push this button, and the police will automatically be dispatched.

Kol HaNaarim Learning

Bring your son. Bring your son's son. Bring your nephew. Bring the boy next door. Everyone is welcome to come and learn! Each motzei Shabbos, the shul will be hosting Kol HaNaarim in the upstairs Beis Medrash from 7:00 to 8:00 pm. For more info, please contact Rabbi Elie Levi at elieclevi@gmail.com.

TY Sisterhood Event

Attention women of Tiferes Yisroel! Please join us for an evening of singing and dancing. Put on your dancing shoes for Israeli dancing featuring popular Israeli dance teacher, Lyn Bendicoff; all levels will be accommodated. And our very own Shalomis Weinreb on guitar will lead us in a sing- along with many popular Jewish songs, as well as some of her own music. The event will take place on Motzei Shabbos, January 26, from 7:45 to 10 pm in the TY Simcha Hall. Sponsored by the TY Sisterhood.

Baruch Dayan HaEmes

Congregation Tiferes Yisroel is saddened to learn of the passing of Mrs. Bernice Sir, a"h, mother of our dear friend and member, Debbie Goldman. May Hashem grant comfort to Debbie and the entire Goldman family, along with the mourners of Zion and Jerusalem.

New Membership Incentive

The shul has changed its membership fees for young married couples to give a graduated rate from the first year through the seventh year of marriage. If you are already a member and would like to take advantage of this new incentive, please send a note to Caryn Blum at bookkeeper@tiferesyisroel.org, giving your date of marriage. The new fee structure is on our website under Membership.

Weekly Parsha

Parshas Bo

By Rabbi A. Leib Scheinbaum

“This month shall be for you the beginning of the months” (12:2)

Time is our most precious Divine gift. Time is life. When we give someone our time, we are giving him a part of our life. The time we give up is a part of our life, which we can no longer retrieve. Thus, it is best that we take great care in how we spend that time. The quantity and quality of time we spend with our children manifests how much we value our relationship with them. If our relationship is all about talk, but does not involve our input of time, it is a sad commentary on that relationship.

As Yidden, we must view time from not merely an objective perspective, but a subjective one as well. We fill time with meaning; otherwise, it goes by and is wasted. We have the opportunity to elevate time when we use it appropriately. We can sanctify time by using it for devarim she'b'kedushah. Therefore, the first mitzvah with which we were commanded as we prepared to leave Egypt was the mitzvah of Kiddush HaChodesh, Sanctifying the New Moon. This is the process in which we declare a certain day to be Rosh Chodesh. At the beginning of the month, the calendar year was determined by the Bais Din. This decision determined when the various Yamim Tovim occur. This is unlike Shabbos, which occurs every seven days, regardless of the calendar date. Shabbos is determined by Hashem; the Festivals, by man.

Sforno observes the distinct connection between Yetzias Mitzrayim, the Egyptian exodus, with the ensuing freedom from slavery, and the mitzvah of Kiddush HaChodesh, sanctifying time through the new moon. Slaves have no clear perception of time, since it does not belong to them. They work for a master. Thus, their time is his. Only a free man who has limited control over his time can spend his time properly. He may, therefore, sanctify it. The concepts of freedom and the sanctity of time go hand in hand, for they define the quality of one's life.

Of all of the “things” that Hashem created, only Shabbos represents the sanctity of time that was blessed by Hashem. Shabbos thereby became an experience in time permeated by Heavenly sanctity. The following discussion between two Chassidic Masters underscores this idea. The Kotzker Rebbe and the Vorker Rebbe were debating the holiness of certain mitzvos. The Vorker maintained that the mitzvah of Succah has greater sanctity than the Four Species. We are busy preparing for their use, purchasing the finest, most pleasant, perfect and beautiful species; once they are used, however, the holiness departs from them. When a Jew sits within the confines of the Succah, he is ensconced in kedushah, holiness; he is surrounded by the mitzvah. Thus, Succah should be considered the greatest mitzvah. The Kotzker countered with the mitzvah of Shabbos. A Jew can leave the Succah, and the holiness no longer encompasses him. A Jew, however, cannot walk out of Shabbos. The sanctity of time is the ultimate sanctity, since it embraces him wherever he goes. Life is measured in time; therefore, time is life. A life whose “time” is holy is a holy life. A life whose “time” has been wasted is essentially without meaning and is of limited value. Hashem grants life; who are we to waste it?

Remembering the Exodus

Parshas Bo tells the story of the Exodus from Mitzraim, and establishes Pesach as an eternal remembrance of the events that led up to it. So monumental was the Exodus that the Haggadah and the laws of Pesach are derived from this week's parsha. Our Chachamim infer from the pasuk, “You shall not eat leavened bread... for seven days you shall eat matzos... for you departed from the land of Mitzraim in haste – so that you will remember the day of your departure from the land of Mitzraim all the days of your life” (Devarim 16:3), that it is a mitzvas asei d'oreisa to recall the Exodus every day and night (Berachos 12b). We fulfill this mitzvah with our daily recital of the Shema when we say, with proper concentration, “I am Hashem, your G-d, Who has removed you from the land of Mitzraim to be a G-d to you.”

Hashem's promise to redeem us from Mitzraim [commonly referred to as the “four expressions of redemption”] which preceded the Exodus can be found at the beginning of Parshas Va'eira: “I shall take you out from under the burdens of Mitzraim; I shall rescue you from their service; I shall redeem you with an outstretched arm and with great judgments. I shall take you to me for a people and I shall be a G-d to you” (Shemos 6: 6-7). Artscroll writes: Having told Moshe that the impending revelation would be greater than that which was revealed to the Avos, and that He was about to redeem the Bnei Yisroel, Hashem commanded him to go once again to the people and tell them that He – as Hashem, the Name that denotes His power and mercy – was about to redeem them. These four different expressions represent progressive stages of the redemption, and are the basis for the Rabbinic requirement of the Four Cups at the Pesach Seder.

The expressions, as explained by R' Bachya, are: 1- והוצאתי (I shall take you out). G-d would remove the Yidden from the burdens of slavery even before they were permitted to leave the country and while they were still the chattels of Mitzraim. The slavery ended in Tishrei, but they did not leave Mitzraim until six months later; 2- והצלתני (I shall rescue you). G-d would take the Yidden out of Mitzraim. The subjugation to Mitzraim will be formally ended; 3- וגאלתי (I shall redeem you). This alludes to Krias Yam Suf, when G-d's outstretched arm with great judgments crushed Mitzraim's power for good. Until then, the Yidden feared that they would be pursued by their former masters and returned to slavery. As the Sages teach, the punishments inflicted upon the Mitzrim at the Sea were five times as great as those they suffered during the Ten Plagues; 4- ולקחתני (I shall take you). G-d took the Yidden as His people when He gave them the Torah at Har Sinai. That was the climax, the purpose, of the Exodus (Artscroll Stone Chumash).

HaRav Asher Weiss writes: “In addition, there is a special mitzvah to recall the Exodus on Seder Night, the anniversary of our liberation. The question has often been asked, What is the difference between these two mitzvos of remembrance? What need is there of a special mitzvah to remember the Exodus on Seder Night if we are anyway commanded to remember it every night of the year?” He answers: “Our debt of gratitude to Hashem for liberating us from slavery entails two distinct obligations. The Torah states: ‘I am Hashem, your G-d, Who has removed you from the land of Mitzraim to be a G-d unto you’ (Bamidbar 15:41). Rashi comments on this pasuk, ‘For this reason I redeemed you – in order that you shall accept My decrees.’ This debt of servitude is the aspect of Yetzias Mitzraim that we must recall twice each day, as part of the recitation of Shema. When we proclaim Hashem's Oneness and Sovereignty by reciting Shema, we make a special point of recalling how He liberated us from slavery, for which we are eternally indebted to His service. The second obligation that Yetzias Mitzraim requires of us is to praise and thank Hashem for His unparalleled kindness, in performing awesome miracles on our behalf, and avenging the atrocities we suffered at the hands of the Mitzrim. This is the underlying theme of the Haggadah – to thank Hashem and to sing His praise, with all our hearts and all our souls, in the deepest and most profound appreciation for His having delivered us from slavery to freedom, from groaning to joy, from mourning to Yom Tov, from darkness to great light, and from subjugation to liberty. This is the special obligation of recalling the Exodus which is unique to Seder night."

We learn from here that the mitzvah to remember the Exodus on Seder night requires a deeper appreciation of Hashem's extreme kindness, for not only the miracles and wonders that He performed for us at the time of the Exodus, but also in His redeeming us from Mitzraim despite our unworthiness as a nation. The mitzvah of remembering the Exodus each day, however, requires no more than our daily recitation of the Shema, with which we acknowledge Hashem's taking us out of Mitzraim, His Oneness, and acceptance of His sovereignty as our G-d. May we all be zoche to fulfill this mitzvah each and every day, and in particular, on Seder night. A gutten Shabbos.
