Shiurim on Podcast

Rabbi Goldberger now has his shiurim on podcast, so you can listen on your portable devices, from your iPod to your tablet; from your phone or your PC. There are three categories already loaded up with shiurim, accessible on all the available podcast apps:

- A Few Minutes with Rabbi Goldberger
- Sifrei Chassidus

Sifrei Machshavah

All of these are available on our Media page, which can be found under the sub-menus for Our Virtual Shul or Shiurim. Enjoy this convenient way to listen to Rabbi Goldberger.

Donations

- In memory of Elaine Gesang, mother of Beth Tenenbaum, by Lynne Selznick
- Yahrzeit donation by Mike Rice

Used Book Sale

Our used book sale is located upstairs outside the Bais Medrash. All proceeds go to the shul. Most titles are still $5 or less. For more info, please contact Steve Schwarz at simchamelech@aol.com or call 410-446-8330.

Agudah Scrip Program at TY

Please place your blue scrip order ($1.25 each) now by going to the shul website's Events page, or by emailing Ben Temin at scrip@tiferesvisroel.org. Please pay by cash or check made out to Agudath Israel Charity Fund.

Shabbos Registration

Just a friendly reminder of the criteria for registration and Shabbos davening in shul:

- At present, the shul is open only to men over the age of Bar Mitzvah and women on Friday night and Shabbos day. Men and women over age 60 should consult with their physician to see if it is safe for them to attend shul indoors.
- Friday night and Shabbos day davening will require pre-registration. There will be separate registration lists for Friday night and Shabbos day, and each week will require new registration. The registration link is sent by email to our subscribers.
- Please remember to sit only in a seat that is marked with blue tape. Members of the same immediate family may sit together in the designated seats. Please do not set up additional seats without explicit permission from our shul gabbaim. If you cannot find a seat, please see Reb Shlomo Goldberger or Binny Margolese for assistance. As always, everyone must continue to wear a mask and abide by social distancing at all times of davening. Your mask must fully cover your mouth and nose. After davening, please wipe down your entire area, the metal parts of your chair, and any seforim you used for davening with a Clorox wipe.

Mazel Tov to

- Gregg and Rachel Levitan on the on the bris of their grandson, Azriel Simcha, son of Sarah and Chesky Schwartz. May they be zoche l'gadlo l'Torah l'chuppah ul'maasim tovim.

*(Doctor Approved) Kol HaNaarim Learning

Bring your son. Bring your son's son. Everyone is welcome to come and learn! Each motzei Shabbos, we will be hosting Kol HaNaarim Learning in the Main Shul with the following new protocols:

- Those living in the same home will sit at their own table, and each group will be socially distanced from the others at a separate table.
- Masks are required at all times.
- Individual pizza slices or treats will be given out for the boys to eat at home or outside.
- Raffle winners will come up to receive their prize and return to their table.
- 7:00- 7:30 learning; 7:30 pizza and raffles. *These new guidelines have been established with physician's approval. For more info, please contact Rabbi Elie Levi at elielevi@gmail.com.

This week's Kol HaNaarim Learning is sponsored by:

Fred and Rena Levi in loving memory of Rena's father, Leonard Sternfield, Aryeh Leib ben Moshe, in honor of his yahrzeit, 10 Shevat, and in loving memory of Fred's father, Ari Levi, Yehuda ben Michael Binyamin HaLevi, in honor of his yahrzeit, 17 Shevat.

Weekly Parsha*Parshas Beshalach

By Rabbi A. Leib Scheinbaum

“Moshe said to Yehoshua, “Choose men from us and go out, do battle with Amalek” (17:9)

Why was Yehoshua selected to lead Klal Yisrael into battle against Amalek? The Midrash explains that Moshe told Yehoshua, “Your grandfather [Yosef Hatzaddik] said, [to Potiphar’s wife], ‘I fear G-d,’ (Bereishis 42:48), and concerning this one [Amalek] it is written (Devarim 25:18), ‘And (he) did not fear G-d.’” Let the grandson of he who said he fears Hashem come and punish the one about whom it is said that he does not fear Hashem. Horav Aharon Kotler, zl, derives a noteworthy lesson from Chazal. The agent that Hashem selects to bring about salvation must personally be undefiled and faultless of any taint of impropriety with regard to the sin which catalyzed the punishment. During every generation, Hashem has prepared a tzaddik, righteous Torah leader, through whom the salvation will be realized. He has the power to battle against the Amalek of every generation, because he is inculpable and free of any vestige of the sin that characterizes the enemy of Torah and the Jewish People. To triumph, one must know his enemy, recognize his shortcomings and understand who is best suited for vanquishing him.

The Bitter Waters

“[With] ten trials did our ancestors test the Holy One, Blessed is He, in the Midbar, as it is said ‘and [they] have tested Me these ten times and did not heed My voice’ (Bamidbar 14:22)” (Avos 5:7). Ironically, the first six of these ten trials in our Mishnah are found this week in Parshas Beshalach. Our Chachamim identify these first six trials: 1- When the Mitzrim pursued the Bnei Yisroel to the Yam Suf, the people asked “Were there no graves in Mitzraim that you took us to die in the Midbar?” (Shemos 14:11); 2- The people complained to Moshe, saying, “What shall we drink?” by the bitter waters of Marah (ibid. 15:24); 3- They complained again when they ran out of food, saying, “If only we had died by the hand of Hashem in the land of Mitzraim... for you have taken us out to this Midbar to kill this entire nation by famine” (ibid. 16:3); 4- They disobeyed Moshe and left over manna “until morning, and it became infested with worms, and it stank; and Moshe became angry with them” (ibid. 16:20); 5- Even though Moshe told them not to do so, “It happened on the seventh day [Shabbos] that some... went out to gather [manna], and they did not find” (ibid. 16:27); 6- In Rephidim, the people formed an angry mob and contended with Moshe, saying, “Give us water that we may drink!” (ibid. 17:2). Moshe, afraid for his own life, cried out to Hashem, “What shall I do for this people? A bit more and they will stone me!” (ibid. 17:4). [The last four include: 7- the Sin of the Golden Calf, 8- Korach’s rebellion, 9- the craving for meat and complaints against the manna in Taveirah, and 10- their belief in the spies’ evil report against Eretz Yisroel.]

Since many of these incidents were blatant sins, the term “trials” seems inappropriate. Tiferes Yisroel and Tosafos Yom Tov differentiate between sins which are the result of misguided desire and those that result from man’s doubts in Hashem’s power or of the veracity of particular prophecies. Sins in the second category are considered a challenge to, and trial of, G-d. The ten sins listed in this Mishnah were of such magnitude that they “tempted” G-d to destroy His people; hence, the Bnei Yisroel tested Hashem by not listening to Him (Artscroll Pirkei Avos) and not trusting in His servant Moshe.

It is difficult to understand how the people so quickly lost their trust in both G-d and in Moshe Rabbeinu, especially since the Torah states that immediately following Krias Yam Suf, “Israel saw the great hand that Hashem inflicted upon Mitzraim; and the people revered Hashem, and they had faith in Hashem and in Moshe” (Shemos 14:26). Even though the Bnei Yisroel witnessed Hashem performing all the miracles and wonders [makos] in Mitzraim, one could still say that it was only a natural reaction to fear the approaching Mitzri army, especially since they seemed to be trapped by the sea with no apparent recourse. But once Moshe split the sea and they crossed to safety, and saw the downfall and death of the entire pursuing Mitzri army, their faith and trust in Hashem and in Moshe should have been concretized.

Yet once they left the shores of the Yam Suf, the Torah states: “They went for a three-day period in the Midbar, but they did not find water. They came to Marah, but they could not drink the waters... because they were bitter. The people complained against Moshe” (ibid. 15:22-24). Artscroll writes that Moshe had to force the Yidden to leave the shores of the Yam Suf. The Chachamim offer two different explanations for this seemingly strange preference. Tanchuma, cited by Rashi, comments that the Mitzri army, confident of an overwhelming victory at the sea, bedecked their horses with every manner of jewel-studded gold and silver ornaments. As a result, the Yidden were able to go away from the sea with greater wealth than they had taken from Mitzraim during the Exodus, and they wanted to remain there to collect even more booty. Moshe restrained them from this overinfatuation with material wealth by journeying away from the seashore. This is alluded to in the pasuk: “My gifts to you from the splitting sea, by inducing Paroah to engage in pursuit, to add circlets of gold to your spangles of silver” (Shir HaShirim 1:10-11). Rashi explains that the “circlets of gold” are the spoils of the Yam Suf, which were of greater value than the “spangles of silver,” the spoils taken from Mitzraim. The Zohar explains that because the Yam Suf was the place where the Yidden had achieved prophecy and seen unprecedented revelations of G-d’s power and holiness, they were reluctant to leave it. Once Hashem removed His Presence from it, He rested it in the Midbar of Shur. Only then was Moshe able to prevail upon the people to leave the sea and follow him into the Midbar, so they could continue to experience closeness to the Shechinah.

The Meforshim note that “water” is often a metaphor for Torah, and that the Yidden neglected their Torah study for three days. This is why their spiritual level deteriorated to the point of rebellion. The Kli Yakar explains homiletically that because the people were so preoccupied with collecting the gold and silver that washed ashore from the dead Mitzrim that they neglected the “spiritual water” of Torah study, and their sin took shape in a physical lack of water (Artscroll Stone Chumash). The Ner Uziel writes: “Seeing the precious ornaments washed up on shore, the entire Jewish nation pounced on the treasure in a headlong pursuit of wealth. As a result, even Moshe’s command to decamp and take up their journey toward Har Sinai fell on deaf ears. This is poignantly reflected in the verse ‘Moshe caused Israel to journey from the Sea of Reeds’ (Shemos 15:22), which, Rashi tells us, indicates that he literally pulled them away from the jewel-studded shoreline and led them forcibly toward Har Sinai. In these verses is contained a lesson of eternal relevance: excessive regard for worldly concerns smothers man’s natural thirst for wisdom and dulls his sensitivity to the beauty of Torah. The Jews’ obsessive desire to gather the gold and silver obliterated the feelings of spiritual elevation they had experienced just a few hours earlier, leaving nary a trace of their newfound awareness of Hashem. All that they had witnessed in Mitzraim and by Krias Yam Suf faded in the gleam of the gold, silver, and jewels that were scattered all along the shore.”

The Torah states that “they could not drink the waters of Marah because they were bitter,” however, the Baal Shem Tov interprets homiletically that the “bitterness” referred not to the water, but to the people. It is human nature that when people become embittered, they see everything in a negative light. Because the people were bitter, they found fault with the water (Artscroll Stone Chumash). Had the Yidden been in a different frame of mind, they would not have complained to Moshe about the lack of water; rather, they could have come to Moshe and respectfully ask that he pray for drinking water on their behalf. After Moshe threw the tree that Hashem showed him into the water, the water became sweet, and the Torah says: “There He established for [the nation] a decree and an ordinance, and there He tested it” (ibid. 15:25). Rashi states that this included Moshe’s teaching of the laws of Shabbos, the para adumah, and the mishpatim (civil laws). By teaching the people Torah, Moshe was able to “sweeten the water,” both literally and figuratively.

The lesson for us today is to try to avoid the snares of wealth and gashmius, and focus on what is really important: To “hearken diligently to the voice of Hashem, your G-d... do what is just in His eyes, give ear to His commandments and observe all His decrees... for I am Hashem, your Healer” (Shemos 15:26). May Hashem bring us refuah now, for all of klal Yisroel: a physical healing and a spiritual cleansing. A gutten Shabbos.

From this Week’s Daf

“Reish Lakish said: Concerning any person who becomes angry: If he is a wise man, his wisdom deserts him; if he is a prophet, his prophecy deserts him. Reish Lakish proves his assertion: We see that if he is a wise man, his wisdom deserts him from an incident that occurred with Moshe. For it is written: And Moshe became angry at the commanders of the army, etc. And shortly afterwards it is written: And Elazar the Kohein said to the men of the army who came to the war: This is the law of the Torah that Hashem commanded Moshe, etc. This implies that the law was hidden from Moshe! Clearly Moshe’s momentary anger caused him to forget the law.” (Pesachim 66b).
