“Yaakov was left alone, and a man wrestled with him”

The Gemara (Hullin 91a) states that Yaakov forgot some small boxes of items and he went back to retrieve them. Rabbenu Eliyahu Mizrahi zs”l explains that since the Torah already said, “he crossed over his belongings,” the question arises as to why Yaakov returned and was thus left alone. Hazal answer that he went back to retrieve small, insignificant items (see Baba Kama 16a).

Rabbenu Bahya added an allusion to this from the words, “vayivater Yaakov levado” (Yaakov was left alone): the word “levado” should actually be read, “lekado,” or “for his container,” implying that he went back to retrieve a small container. Rabbenu Eliyahu Mizrahi writes the following comment regarding this allusion: “Only the Tannaim and Amoraim have the power to expound in this manner. Anyone else — even the Geonim — do not have the power to expound this way.” He then notes that some have interpreted the word “levado” as related to the term, “bet habad,” or oil press, thus referring to a small jug of oil. Rav Eliyahu writes regarding this view that this was a container of oil, “If it is a tradition, we will accept it.”

The Maharshah explains this tradition beautifully. This jug of oil was meant to be used to pour oil onto the monument that Yaakov had erected in Bet El. It is therefore not included in “his belongings” that Yaakov had carried over the river, because this oil was not his; it belonged to Hashem, as it were. He therefore endangered his life by going back for it. In reward for his devotion in retrieving this jug of oil to fulfill his vow, his descendants were granted the miracle of Hannukah!

Rabbenu David Pardo zs”l, in his work, Maskil L’David, explains that since this jug of oil was intended for use in the fulfillment of Yaakov’s vow, thus rendering his oil “hekdesh” (sacred property), Yaakov endangered his life for it. He was willing to go back by himself in the dark of night because he feared that others would find it and use it for mundane purposes. Since he returned for the purposes of a misvah, and “those going to perform a misvah are not harmed,” he defeated the angel who attacked him. However, since he did forget a jug of sacred oil, he was temporarily wounded in his hip.

The Alshich Hakadosh zs”l writes that Yaakov Avinu did not rely on the gift that he sent Esav, but rather on the camp of angels he had with him. This is what the pasuk means, “The gift passed him, and he slept that night in the camp,” referring to the camp of angels. However, when he brought his family and belongings across the river, the angels went across, as well. Then, when he returned, he was truly “left alone,” without the protective angels, and he was attacked.

“He [Yaakov] purchased the plot of land”

Why did the Torah specify that Yaakov purchased a plot of land near Shechem for one hundred gold coins? The Ramban zs”l writes that Yaakov wanted that his residence on the land would be like a true owner, and not like a guest or foreigner. Rabbi Avraham Ibn Ezra zs”l writes, “The text mentioned this to tell us that the Land of Israel possesses a special quality, and one who has a part in it is considered to have a part in the World to Come.” However, this alone does not suffice, as Yaakov built an altar to Hashem. The true special quality of Israel is only when its inhabitants worship Hashem!

The text notes that Yaakov bought the field because it had mentioned that he built an altar to Hashem, and, writes Rabbi Ovadyah Seforno zs”l, “How can we sing the song of Hashem on foreign soil?” Rabbi Hayim Vital zs”l adds that at the end of the book of Shemuel, King David is instructed to build an altar to Hashem in the granary of Aravnah, on the Temple Mount, in order to stop the ravages of a plague. Aravnah was prepared to give the field to the Jewish king for free, but David refused: “I will not offer sacrifices to Hashem for free.” From here the Zohar derives that one should purchase misvot for their proper price.

Your name is Jacob, your name will no longer be Jacob, rather Israel will be your name:

1) It seems that there is a contradiction here. First, Hashem states that his name is Jacob, and then says that his name will not be Jacob! Rabbi Obadiah Seforno explained that Yaacov is from the word “akev” (heel) which is the end of the body. Yaacov was informed that the Jewish nation would exist forever; He alone will remain when Mashiach comes. When that happens, his name will no longer be Jacob, rather Israel — a minister, and important person. Until then the Jewish people will enjoy some good times but nothing like the time of the Messiah.

2) Rabbeinu Bachye, zassal, quoted the words of one of the great sages of Seville, who explain that Jacob indicates the heel, the lowest place in the human body. The word “Israel” indicates something great and important, and its letters form the phrase “li rosh,” meaning “to me the head.” Therefore the name Jacob was not erased completely, but continued together with the name Israel. Man should be like a ladder, his feet on the ground and his head reaching the sky. Combining the two names of Jacob, we combine the spiritual and physical to affect one entity of Hashem’s worship and to reach perfection.

3) The words “Your name is Yaacov” seem redundant. Here Hashem told him that the name Jacob would not be erased, rather, the name Israel will be added to it. Why? The revered Alsheich, zassal, explained, that the name Jacob indicates trickery and deceit and refers to how Jacob attained the rights of the firstborn and the blessings of Isaac. The name Israel indicates honesty and decency. Had the name Jacob been erased, one would think that now the time for trickery is over and now it is time for honesty. Therefore Hashem ordered that both names remain to tell us that even what seems to have been deceit and trickery was in effect truth and justice. Jacob was the one who deserved to receive the blessings!

4) Our Rabbi the Siftei Cohen, zassal, wrote that the principal name “Israel” is for the world-to-come, when the name of Hashem will be in full. That is what the passage says “ki im Yisrael” — rather Israel “yihye shimcha veyikare” — the ends of the words amount to 26 like the name of Hashem. Then his name will be Israel.

Saving and Investing for Twentysomethings (and Older and Younger)

On motzei Shabbos, November 23, at 8 pm in the Nancy Taffel Annex, Jay Taffel will lead a discussion about the importance of saving and investing money when you are younger. (So IY”H you’ll have something when you’re older.)

We will talk about the power of compound interest, what exactly are stocks, ETFs and mutual funds, and the different types of investment and retirement accounts that are available.

If you know nothing about investing, then this discussion is for you. The talk is geared for post-seminary and post-yeshiva young adults, but all are welcome. There will be no solicitations or selling of any kind.
