Purim Card Design Day

Kids of the shul, mark your calendars for Sunday, February 23 (time TBD), for our annual Purim card design project. Make a Purim card that the shul will display in the hall. One card will be chosen for our shul Purim card.

Purim Card

Purim is coming! Here's a great opportunity to send Purim greetings to all the shul members. A beautiful Purim card will be sent to everyone in the shul with your name listed as part of the signature. The cost for this incredible bargain is only $25! And, the card will be designed by one of the children in the shul; what could be better!

To add your name to the card, send your $25 check to the shul — Congregation Tiferes Yisroel, 6201 Park Heights Avenue, Baltimore, MD 21215, or use PayPal or your own credit card on the shul website — tiferesyisroel.org/donate.html, and select Purim Greeting Card.

We must receive your payment by Sunday, February 23, to reserve your space.

Note: This is not a substitute for Shaloch Manos.

Are You a Friday Nighter?

Do you regularly attend Tiferes Yisroel on Friday night because the davening sweeps you into Shabbos better than any other place? Here's your chance to show your appreciation to the kehilla and to the Rabbi by giving an ad for the banquet.

Banquet

Congregation Tiferes Yisroel is very pleased to announce its 28th Anniversary Banquet on March 9, honoring Dov and Karen Pear. The Jewish Leadership Award will be going to Hinda Blum and Shulamis Heldoorn.

You should have received your invitation in the mail. You can register and pay by mail or online at <https://tiferesyisroel.org/app/register/banquet>. We accept PayPal or your credit or debit card. You can send in your ad separately to banquet@tiferesyisroel.org.

Focus on Tefilla Writing Workshop

Ladies, please attend a writing workshop which can help with concentration during davening. This will be held in the Nancy Taffel Annex starting this Sunday night, February 16, February 23 and March 2 from 8 to 9 pm. We will use the Artscroll Siddur, but feel free to bring any other meaningful translation and a notebook to write in. Led by Devorah Taffel.

Focus on Chesed

Rabbi Goldberger gives a shiur in the Sefer Ahavas Chesed by the Chofetz Chaim. The men's shiur is right after maariv on Sunday night (about 5:30 pm) in the Beis Midrash. The women's shiur is Monday nights from 8:15 to 9:05 pm in the Nancy Taffel Annex.

This week we continued in the topic of "Hachnosas Orchim" (welcoming guests) in chelek gimel, perek aleph and bais (section 3, chapters 1 and 2).

Each week the "Chesed of the Week" is posted on a decorative flier in the shul in several places. Some people have commented that they enjoy the reinforcement and the awareness that the flyer produces. Thank you to Mordecai Zev and Aviva Margolese and Sarah Saltman for designing, producing and posting the fliers each week. Yasher koach!

Father/Son Learning

Join us every Motzei Shabbos from 8 to 9 pm for Father/Son Learning. It's a wonderful way to hold onto the Kedusha from Shabbos as you and your son(s) share this special time together. Pizza and refreshments are available from 8 to 8:30, accompanied by stories of our holy Tzaddikim.

We meet upstairs, in the Beis Midrash.

The Weekly Parsha

Parsha Potpourri — Selections

by Oizer Alport

Vayomer Hashem el Moshe kach lecha samim nataf ush'cheiles v'chelbena samim u'levona zakah ... v'asisa osah ketores (30:34-35)

At the end of the morning prayers on Shabbos, we recite a passage describing the contents of the incense which was burnt in the Beis HaMikdash. This section is preceded by a declaration of faith in the Unity of Hashem known as “Ein Keilokeinu” — there is none like our G-d. As beautiful as this passage is, it is interesting to note that no comparable introduction is said before the passages recounting the other sacrifices which were brought. What is unique about the incense offering?

The Gemora in Yoma (26a) relates that no Kohen was permitted to offer the incense more than once in his life. Because this service contained a special power to bring riches to whoever merited to perform it, nobody was allowed to do so a second time in order to allow other Kohanim to share in this unique opportunity.

Based on this Gemora, the Noda BiYehuda (Orach Chaim 1:10) posits that because a person who says the passages dealing with the sacrifices is considered as if he actually offered them, the recounting of the incense service contains a unique potential to bring wealth. The Sages were afraid that the person reciting it may attribute his good fortune to “Kochi v'otzem yadi” — his own hard work and intelligence. They therefore required that before doing so, he must declare to himself and to the world the Oneness of Hashem as a reminder of the true Source of the wealth he is about to merit.

Vaya'amod Moshe b'shaar hamachaneh vayomer mi l'Hashem ali vayei'asfu eilav kol b'nei Levi (32:26)

Kol b'nei Levi — mikan shekol hasheivet kosher (Rashi)

The seven aliyos into which each parsha is subdivided are generally somewhat evenly spaced. However, this week's parsha contains 139 verses, yet the first two aliyos contain a highly disproportionate 92 verses, or two-thirds of the entire parsha. Why is this?

The Chiddushei HaRim and Rav Yitzchok Zilberstein explain that the bulk of the parsha discusses the sin of the golden calf, a national embarrassment of unprecedented proportions. For somebody to be called up to the Torah when this sin, in which his ancestors may have played a role, is being recounted would be humiliating. However, the entire tribe of Levi proved faithful by refusing to take part in the sin and assisting Moshe in punishing the wrongdoers. Therefore, the first two aliyos, which are given to Levites, are atypically lengthened until the episode of the golden calf is completed.

Vayipol min ha'am bayom ha'hu kishloses alfei ish (32:28)

The Torah states that the Levites killed 3,000 Jews for their role in the sin of the golden calf. There is a very perplexing Medrash on our verse, which states that our verse illustrates that which the Torah rules (21:37) chamisha baker y'shaleim tachas ha'shor — when a person steals an ox and subsequently slaughters or sells it, he must compensate the owner five times the actual value of the ox. On the surface, the Medrash seems to make no sense, as this latter verse has no apparent connection to ours.

The Vilna Gaon beautifully explains that our Medrash can be understood based on a second Medrash. Shlomo HaMelech cryptically writes in Koheles (7:28) adam echad m'elef matzasi v'isha b'kol eileh lo matzasi — one man out of each 1,000 I found, but not a single woman did I find. The Medrash elucidates that he is referring to the sin of the golden calf, in which one out of each 1,000 men sinned, yet not a single woman participated. However, we know that there were roughly 600,000 men, and if only one out of 1,000 of them transgressed, that translates to only 600 sinners. The Medrash is therefore bothered how our verse could relate that 3,000 people died if only 600 participated. To that, it answers that when the sin occurs through forbidden actions involving a cow — in this case, the golden calf — the Torah prescribes that the punishment must be five times the actual crime, and in this case five times the 600 sinners is precisely the 3,000 people who were killed!

V'im ayin m'cheini na misifr'cha asher kasavta (32:32)

The Arizal writes that Moshe Rabbeinu contained within him a spark of the soul of Noach, and part of his life mission was to rectify certain mistakes made by Noach. The Zohar HaKadosh notes that the Haftorah for Parshas Noach curiously makes reference to “mei Noach” — “the flood-waters of Noach” (Yeshaya 54:9). Noach was the only one found righteous and worthy of salvation in his generation, so it would presumably have been more appropriate to refer to it as the flood of his wicked contemporaries. However, during the 120 years that he spent building the ark, he neglected to pray for their repentance, nor did he successfully influence even a single person to repent his evil ways. Had he been more concerned about them and not with his own personal piety, he likely could have prevented the flood and its accompanying destruction; hence, it is memorialized as “the flood of Noach.”

Moshe, containing some element of Noach's soul, came to correct this misplaced lack of concern for others. Moshe Rabbeinu was the antithesis of Noach. Although Divine Providence brought him to Paroh's palace where he was spared the fate of his fellow Jews, he nevertheless felt their pain from his youth and embarked upon his mission as their communal leader, often sacrificing his own personal growth and honor for their sake.

The 120 years that Noach spent absorbed in ensuring his own personal salvation through the building of the ark were perfectly rectified during Moshe's 120 years of living for others. We witness Moshe's ultimate dedication to his people after the sin of the golden calf. Hashem desired to eradicate the current Jewish population and to create a new nation consisting solely of Moshe's descendants. The Darkei Mussar notes that Moshe had every right to be upset with his stiff-necked people, whom he found not mourning but celebrating what they perceived as his death and their replacement of him with an inanimate object. Nevertheless, he beseeched and implored Hashem to forgive their actions, adding that should He refuse to do so, then He should also erase Moshe from the entire Torah. This selflessness represented the ultimate correction of Noach's errors, and not surprisingly this is hinted to as the letters in m'cheini (“erase me”) also spell mei Noach!

Focus on Chesed

Chesed for the Week

Hide your worries from your guests lest they think they are causing you more trouble. (from "Ahavas Chesed").

A Real Nice Chesed

Thursday morning during the big snowstorm we had nine men in shul for shacharis. Someone (not from our shul) was walking on Park Heights in the blowing snow and we asked if he could be our tenth. We were already up to "Yishtabach." He had his tefilin in a different shul. He came in and stayed until the end (learning torah), which took about forty minutes. He then went to daven shacharis where his tefilin were. "Ashreichem Yisroel."

"Olam chesed yibaneh, the world is built on kindness,"

Have a good Shabbos,

Rabbi Menachem Goldberger

Walk the Walk

Tiferes Yisroel is "Walking the Walk/Run" in this year's Focus on Chesed by participating in the Jewish Caring Network's 5K Care Run. You can support the team by a contribution or by your presence in the walk/run.

The men's event is on Sunday, May 25, at Druid Hill Park, and the women's event is on June 1 at the Baltimore Zoo.

To make a contribution or to sign up to participate ($36 to participate), go to www.jewishcaringnetwork.org/ and click on either Men's Race or Women's Race (this is for both sponsoring and for participating). Men can sponsor women and vice versa, but the participants are separate for men and women. Find the "TY Rabbi Goldberger's Shul" block, and click on the line that pertains to you, either "Join This Team" to participate, or click anywhere else to donate. If you click anywhere in the block, you can show you are participating on the next screen by clicking on the "Join TY Rabbi Goldberger's Shul" link in blue.
