The Weekly Parsha

Parsha Potpourri

by Oizer Alport

Vat'hi ha'kinim ba'adam uvab'heima kol afar ha'aretz haya kinim b'chol erez Mitzrayim (8:13)

A number of our greatest Rabbis (Rambam, Rabbeinu Yonah, Meiri, Vilna Gaon) write in their commentaries on Pirkei Avos (5:4) that during the plague of lice, the lice also infested the land of Goshen where the Jews lived, just that they didn't cause them the suffering that they did to the Egyptians.

The Mishmeres Ariel brings a strikingly simple proof to this astonishing fact. One of Yaakov's reasons for requesting that Yosef not bury him in Egypt was to avoid the lice which would be crawling throughout the ground (Rashi Bereishis 47:29). If, however, the lice were nowhere to be found in the land of Goshen, then Yaakov could have simply made Yosef swear to bury him there and not burden him to carry his body all the way to the land of Israel. From the fact that he made him do so, it must be that he knew this wouldn't suffice as the lice would also be present in Goshen!

Rav Chaim Kanievsky suggests the reason for this peculiarity was that in the first two plagues, Pharaoh's magicians were able to replicate the actual plague. As such, the only proof that Moshe's plagues were caused by Hashem and not by sorcery was the fact that they miraculously stopped at the borders of the Jewish land of Goshen. In the plague of lice, on the other hand, Pharaoh's magicians were unable to copy the plague and freely admitted that it had been performed by Hashem, in which case there was no need for the additional miracle of preventing the lice from entering the land of Goshen, just that Hashem prevented them from causing actual pain or inconvenience to the Jews living there.

Finding Mutual Funds and ETFs for Your Investment Objectives

What is a mutual fund? ETF? Prospectus? Do you know what to look for in a prospectus? Do you even know what a prospectus is? Join us Motzei Shabbos, January 31, at 8:30 pm in the Nancy Taffel Annex as Jay Taffel continues with his discussions of saving and investing. Learn about what to look for in funds and ETFs: the industry standard "stylebox," active vs. passive management, listing of specific risks of each fund/ETF, impact of fees and the different classes of mutual funds.

The discussion is open to all, especially for those with limited exposure to investing. No solicitations or selling of any kind.

Used Book Sale

Our used book sale is located upstairs outside the Bais Medrash. Everything is $5 or less. If you would like to donate any gently used Sefarim or Jewish books, please contact Steve Schwarz at 410-446-8330 or [simcha melech@aol.com](mailto:simcha melech@aol.com). All proceeds go to the shul.

Know Your Shul Members — The Ezras

Jared and Stephanie Ezra, who became members of Tiferes Yisroel in December, have lived next door to the Rabbi and Rebbetzin since 2010, the year they moved from Reisterstown to join the community. After Stephanie made a commitment to attend shul every Shabbos, it was the Goldbergers' own warmth and hospitality, as well as that of shul members, that persuaded the Ezras, who are familiar faces at Etz Chaim, Ner Tamid, and Bais Lubavitch as well, to settle in at TY. Jared particularly credits Rabbi Goldberger's calm personality with making him and his family feel at home.

The Ezras grew up on the same block in Randallstown and were playmates as children. Stephanie recalls, "Jared's family kept kosher, and I thought that was the coolest thing. I knew I wanted to do that when I grew up." Their first date was also their last for the next sixteen years. During some of those years of Jared's not calling, Stephanie pursued her education at Boston University and later Jewish Theological Seminary, earning a Bachelor's in Jewish Philosophy and a Master's in Jewish Education. Drawn to religious Jews as friends, she found that the more she learned about the history of the Jewish people, the more she wanted to put her learning into practice. Back from school in 1998, she began spending Shabbos with the Porters and asking lots of questions, and Rabbi Porter led her to TY. Today she works for the Social Security Administration and stays fit with Israeli self-defense.

Jared, a ninth-generation direct descendant of Rabbi Levi Yitzchok of Berditchev, is the father of Ari, 15, a sports lover who plays baseball for the Westminster High School Owls and works at Players family fun center; Caleb, 13, today's bar mitzvah, who enjoys Lego, cards, and video games; and Tali, 10, an artist with a passion for clothing, interior design, and organizing.

A self-described introvert with deep interests in music, languages (Chinese, Korean and Russian), and cars, Jared was once a DJ for parties, mixing house, ethnic, and "other kinds of music you've never heard of." When he's not at work at his pawn shop downtown, he still mixes music to share with friends.

Marriage to Stephanie, says Jared, "is when I realized that everything could fall into place and you could have it all. Having a successful business and now a partner to help me through life, it's very easy to bring Hashem into every aspect of my life."

Rebbetzin Bracha's Soup Gmach

A gezintin vinter, we should all be gezhundert From the colds and the flus and the fleas from the hundt

But if, chas v'shulom, you're not feeling so shtark

With no one to soothe you with strings from a harp

You could benefit — sure — from a therapy group

But without spreading germs you could just drink some soup

An ancient history of healing we know to be true

Is contained in a very mystical and yiddishe brew

So, now, look no further than Park Heights and Glen

For making chicken soup, I might have a bren
And so to respond to our Inspired Rabbi's addressing

Our shul on Rosh Hashana with all of his blessings

To focus this year on the loving of kindness And even though I feel I have fallen behind in this

Finally, the time has arrived, it's gshmacht
The opening of Rebbetzin's chicken soup gmach

All soup containers are lovingly enhanced with good cheer

By the talented hands of my children so dear
So, if it's a sniffle or you're just a bit blue Come have some soup, it was made just for YOU ☺

To enjoy, when unfortunately necessary, please contact Rebbetzin Goldberger for pick up at 410-542-9656.
