Rabbi and Rebbetzin Goldberger to be Honored

Rabbi and Rebbetzin Goldberger are being honored as Grandparents of the Year by TA at their annual banquet on June 8. You can register for the banquet or place an ad in their honor at tadinner.com.

Lev Echad

It is my extreme pleasure to be serving as the new editor of the Lev Echad. I would like to personally thank Suzanne Kayne for her many years of dedicated service as editor, and sincerely hope that she enjoys her early retirement. I want to wish the Rabbi and Rebbetzin, and the entire kehillah a good Shabbos and Yom Tov, and I look forward to many years of success with the Lev Echad.

-Lev Avraham Rosenstock, Editor

This week's Lev Echad is in honor of:

The Aliyas Neshama of our beloved sister, Gloria (Gila bas Yaakov Zev), by Rabbi Elie and Esther Weiner. May she be remembered as a blessing and a joy.

Suzanne Kayne, with great appreciation for the outstanding job she has done as editor of the Lev Echad for so many years. May Hashem always bless you - Rabbi and Rebbetzin Goldberger and Kehillas Tiferes Yisroel.

The Weekly Parsha

Parshas Bamidbar

By Ozer Alport

S'u es rosh kol adas B'nei Yisroel (1:2)

There is a mystical idea that the content of the parsha read each Shabbos is connected to the events of the coming week. It is interesting to note that Parshas Bamidbar is usually read on the Shabbos preceding Shavuot, although it is difficult at first glance to find any connection between a parsha which deals primarily with counting the tribes and the holiday on which the Jews received the Torah.

Rav Moshe Feinstein suggests that as Jews around the world excitedly gear up to personally reaccept the Torah and reaffirm their commitment to its study, the yetzer hara attempts to derail them. It argues that their Torah study is so limited in quantity and quality that it is insignificant and even a waste of time.

The yetzer hara shows a person that his more intellectually gifted friends are able to learn more hours and more pages and to retain their knowledge better than he could ever hope to do. As Jews get excited for the universal custom of staying up all night engrossed in Torah study, a person may be tempted to opt for a good night's sleep after considering that the most he could accomplish in an entire night could be learned on an even higher level by the Rosh Yeshiva or Rav in a mere 10 minutes.

To counter this flawed argument, the Torah precedes the holiday of Shavuot with the reading of Parshas Bamidbar. The parsha begins with Hashem's command to conduct a census of the Jewish people, but it is written using a peculiar expression. Instead of instructing Moshe to "go count the people," the words used literally translate as "pick up the heads of the Jews." Why did Hashem use this awkward expression when commanding Moshe about the census?

Rav Moshe explains that just as a contemporary Jew could get discouraged in his service of Hashem when comparing it to others, certainly one in the desert, who lived in the shadows of Moshe and Aharon, could be susceptible to the same fallacy. He may feel that although he is "worth" 1, those around him are "worth" 100, leaving him despondent.

Hashem used this peculiar expression because when every Jew realizes that in the census he is counted as the same 1 as every other Jew, he will recognize how valuable his efforts are in Hashem's eyes. This understanding will allow him to "pick up his head" and hold it high with a newfound self-confidence.

Although others may seem light-years ahead of us in the quantity and quality of their mitzvos, the lesson of Parshas Bamidbar is that everybody is judged separately in Hashem's eyes, based on a benchmark of what he is capable of doing. A person who overcomes his own struggles to maximize his potential should certainly enter Shavuot prepared to accept the Torah with his head held high.

Ish al diglo b'osos l'beis avosam yachanu B'nei Yisroel minaged saviv l'ohel moed yachanu (2:2)

Rav Avrohom of Zunsheim, a Rishon and author of Tikkun Tefillin, points out a number of fascinating parallels between the Tefillin shel Rosh and the encampments of the Jews in the desert. The tefillin is sewn up on the bottom with 12 stitches, 3 on each of the 4 sides. This corresponds to the configuration of the 12 tribes, which also camped in groups of 3 tribes, all positioned around the central camp of the Divine Presence and camp of the Levites. In the center of the tefillin are the parshios, which represent the Luchos, and the cube in which they rest corresponds to the Aron in which the Luchos were kept. Finally, the kapores – the lid of the Aron – had two Keruvim on top of it, positioned with their wings spread above. This image of a cherub with its wings spread is similar to the Hebrew letter "ו," and so the two letter "וו" which are located on the outside of the box of the tefillin symbolize the Keruvim resting on top of the Aron and spreading their wings.

V'eileh Toldos Aharon u'Moshe b'yom dibeir Hashem es Moshe b'Har Sinai (3:1)

The Torah purports to list the descendants of Moshe and Aharon, but proceeds to list only Aharon's children. Rashi quotes the Gemora in Sanhedrin (19b), which states that whoever teaches Torah to others is considered as if he gave birth to them. Because Moshe taught Torah to Aharon's children, the Torah considers it as though they were his own progeny. The Gemora there similarly states that whoever raises an orphan in his home is considered to have given birth to him. Can one who is unable to have children fulfill the mitzvah of having children through these methods, as it will be considered as if he gave birth to them?

In the beginning of his commentary Chochmas Shlomo on the Even HaEzer section of Shulchan Aruch, Rav Shlomo Kluger discusses this question and writes that it is subject to a dispute. Whenever the sages teach that A is considered like B, the Drisha and Taz disagree whether they mean to say that A is like B only in a figurative sense or whether it is literally the same as B. According to the Drisha, who maintains that such comparisons cannot be taken literally, a person could not fulfill the mitzvah to have children in this manner. According to the Taz, who argues that the Rabbis intended to say that the two items being equated are legally one and the same, it would be possible for a couple who are unable to have children to perform the mitzvah in this manner.

Vayamas Nadav v'Avihu lifnei Hashem b'hakrivam aish zarah lifnei Hashem b'midbar Sinai u'banim lo hayu lahem vay'cha'hein Elazar v'Isomor al p'nei Aharon avihem (3:4)

The Rav of a town in Europe once passed away, and because his son was too young to fill his position, the leaders of the community hired another Rav to take his place. Within a number of years, however, his son matured and reached a level at which he was capable of serving in his father's stead. The new Rav expressed resistance and argued that although a Rav's son is legally entitled to inherit his father's position and fill the role if he is fitting, in this case the son had been too young at the time and therefore lost his right of succession.

The dispute was brought for resolution to Rav Meir Shapiro. The Medrash explains that the Torah emphasizes the fact that Nadav and Avihu died without any children in order to teach that if they had indeed had children, their children would have precedence in taking their places. It was only because they died without children that the verse concludes that Elazar and Isomor were therefore eligible to serve in their father Aharon's stead.

Rav Shapiro noted that this Medrash is difficult to understand, as the Zohar HaKadosh states that Nadav and Avihu were under the age of 20 when they died. Even if they had left descendants, those children would clearly be under Bar Mitzvah age at the time of their deaths, which would invalidate them from inheriting the position and serving in the Mishkan at that time. If so, how could the Medrash infer that had Nadav and Avihu left behind progeny, they would have preceded their uncles (Elazar and Isomor) in filling a position for which they were ineligible?

Rather, Rav Shapiro concluded, we may deduce from here that even in a case when the inheritors are too young at the time of death to fill the role which is rightfully theirs, they never relinquish their claims to the position, which they are entitled to fill upon their maturity, and the Rav's son shall now inherit his father's mantle.

ShulCloud

We are excited to announce that Tiferes Yisroel has just switched over to a new website! Same name, different look. We hope you will find our site informative with access to our bulletin, events, and calendar. If you would like to receive email from the shul, you will need to go to the website to sign up for our emails. Look for "Subscribe to our mailing list."

Fifth Annual Tiferes Yisroel Sisterhood Coffeehouse Concert

The fifth annual Tiferes Yisroel Sisterhood Coffeehouse Concert is scheduled for Sunday, August 30th.

We are looking for sponsors to get us started. A $100 sponsorship includes two tickets to the concert.

To reserve your sponsorship, which helps support our Sisterhood and our shul, please contact Caryn Blum, carynblum@icloud.com or 410-358-5478.

Rabbi's Shabbos Afternoon Shiur

We are learning Megillas Rus with Rashi's commentary. Photocopies of the text will be available. The shiur is every Shabbos afternoon, one hour before Mincha. Rabbi Goldberger will bring insights from other meforshim as well. Men and women are invited to attend.

Want to Be a "Minyanaire"?!

Want to impress your Creator? Looking for a way to increase your "spiritual equity"?

Come join the TY minyan. We are looking for a few (10+) good men ages 13-120 to join our daily minyan. Shacharis is at 6:30 am during the week, 8:30 am on Shabbos, and 8 am on Sundays. Mincha/Maariv begins 10 minutes before shkia; check the seasonal davening schedule or the Lev Echad for exact times.

Big Brothers/Big Sisters

Right now, there are young people in our community who need a mentor and a friend. Become a Big Brother or Big Sister and find out how rewarding this volunteer experience can be. For more information, contact Mrs. Bracha Goetz at Jewish Community Services, 410-843-7453 or bgoetz@jcsbaltimore.org.

Used Book Sale

Our used book sale is located upstairs outside the Bais Medrash. All proceeds go to the shul. Most titles are still $5 or less. For more information or to donate gently used Jewish books, please contact Steve Schwarz at simchamelech@aol.com or call 410-446-8330. Thank you for supporting your shul.

Chesed Committee

Did you know Tiferes Yisroel has a chesed committee that helps you with meals when you need them? Contact Chana Birnbaum at 410-358-7736 for shiva; Raizy Cohen at 410-764-8852 for cholim; and Tova Jussim at 862-220-6531 for births. Thank you Tova, Chana and Raizy.

Centerpieces For Rent

The TY Sisterhood has centerpieces for rent for a nominal fee. Great for Sheva Brachos or a Bar Mitzvah. Please contact Devorah Taffel for more information.
