Meet the TY Office Staff

Do you ever need to review your shul account to see what you have paid or might owe? Do you have a new e-mail address or phone number and want to let the office know? Are you trying to sponsor something, like a Shalosh Seudos or a day of learning? Purchase a sidur? Inquire about membership? All of those things and more are handled by the TY Office Secretary. Who is this wonderful person who can do all these things for you? It's YOU.

Yes, You. You can now do all of these things on the shul website. Why should you? Simply because the shul has no office, no secretary, no office assistant. We depend on every person to do their part. Please help us by taking on the role of office secretary and maintain your family's records at www.tiferesyisroel.org. Contact communications@tiferesyisroel.org if you need help getting in. Thanks for your help!

Women's Tehillim Group

The Women's Tehillim Group meets every Sunday at 10 am in the Nancy Taffel Annex. Please join us when you can.

Summer Father/Son Learning

Starting this Shabbos afternoon, and running through the rest of the summer, the shul will be hosting Father/Son Learning in the upstairs Beis Medrash from 5 to 6 pm.

Bring your son. Bring your son's son. Bring your nephew. Bring the boy next-door. Everyone is welcome to come and learn. Summer snacks and cool refreshments will be provided. Weekly sponsorship is appreciated.

For any questions regarding the program, or for sponsorship, please contact Saul Passe at vp-programming@tiferesyisroel.org.

New Members

Congregation Tiferes Yisroel welcomes new members Aaron and Devorah Urszuy, Ellen Sack, and Scott and Julie Klein and family to the kehillah. Welcome to the TY family.

From the TY Bookkeeper

Shul invoices were sent out earlier this week from our new website. Please log-on to tiferesyisroel.org and view your account activity. You can see past and current pledges and donations and pay your balance via the link on the site. Any questions you have regarding your account balance may be sent to bookkeeper@tiferesyisroel.org. Please make every effort to pay off your shul obligations to ensure the shul's financial security.

Are You Missing Shul E-mail Messages?

Did you miss the Lev Echad in your e-mail inbox last week? If so, it's because we have a new website, (www.tiferesyisroel.org), with a new look and new content. We could not retain our subscribers from our previous web host, so you will need to sign up again for our e-mails. You can select which e-mail types you wish to receive, e.g. Announcements, Bereavement, Weekly Bulletin, Mazel Tovs. Just look on the home page for "Subscribe to our Mailing List." We look forward to having you back!

The Weekly Parsha

Parshas Beha'aloscha

By Ozer Alport

“Did I conceive this entire people or did I give birth to it... Where shall I get meat to give to this entire people...” (Bamidbar 11:12-13)

The Sfas Emes was once approached by the son of one of his close chassidim, who came to complain to the Rebbe that his father was uninterested in his economic difficulties and wasn't doing anything to assist him financially. The next time that he encountered the man's father, the sagacious Sfas Emes called him over to ask him for an explanation of his unwillingness to help out his struggling son. The father expressed his concern for his son's well-being, but explained that he was simply unable to do anything to be of material assistance.

The Rebbe replied by asking him why Moshe, in his complaints to Hashem, began by asking whether he had conceived and given birth to the Jewish nation, and only subsequently continued to express his inability to supply them with the tremendous amount of meat necessary to meet their desires. If Moshe knew that he lacked the means to provide them with their request, why was it relevant whether he gave birth to them?

The father remained silent. The Rebbe continued, explaining that we derive from here that only because Moshe didn't conceive the Jewish nation was he able to excuse himself with the argument that he was incapable of meeting their demands. However, if somebody did give birth to another person, a claim of a lack of means to assist and support them is completely invalid.

“A wind went forth from Hashem and blew quail from the sea and spread them over the camp, a day's journey this way and a day's journey that way, all around the camp, and two cubits above the face of the earth.” (11:31)

“They would fly at a height to the point where they were opposite a person's heart, so that there would be no trouble in gathering them, neither by reaching high, nor by bending over.” (Rashi)

The Darkei Mussar quotes Rav Yitzchok Meir ben-Menachem (son-in-law of Rav Isser Zalman Meltzer) as deriving from here a beautiful lesson in how Hashem runs the world.

Rashi explains that the quail floated in mid-air at a level of two amos (3-4 feet) off the ground, so that the Jews who went to gather them wouldn't have to exert themselves to bend over and pick up the quail from off the ground. However, we know that a mere two verses later (11:33), the Torah relates that those who gluttonously consumed the quail died with the unchewed meat still between their teeth. If Hashem felt that their complaints and request for meat were inappropriate and planned to use the quail as an instrument of Divine punishment, why did He miraculously suspend the quail in mid-air in order to prevent unnecessary efforts on the part of such sinners?

Rather, we may derive from here that Hashem's Divine system of reward and punishment is precisely meted out, and even a person upon whom suffering is decreed will only experience exactly the amount of pain which is coming to him and not the slightest bit more. We similarly find that although Yosef was sold into slavery and forced to endure untold suffering in Egypt, the Arab caravan which took him to Egypt was uncharacteristically carrying sweet-smelling spices (Bereishis 37:25) in order to save him from unnecessary suffering. Rashi also writes (Vayikra 14:34) that even when Hashem brings tzara'as upon the house of a person who speaks evil of others, it still brings with it the blessing of allowing the owner to discover valuable treasures which were hidden in the walls of house by the previous Canaanite inhabitants.

Although nobody enjoys the suffering he is forced to endure throughout life, the knowledge that it is precisely meted out by a loving and compassionate G-d who won't put him through the smallest amount of unnecessary pain can make it significantly more bearable.

“The people rose up all that day and all the night and all the next day and gathered up the quail - the one with the least gathered ten chomers - and they spread them out all around the camp.” (11:32)

During their travels in the wilderness, a group of complainers began to protest the Manna that they were forced to eat day after day. They wailed that they missed the succulent meat that they ate in Egypt, and now they had nothing to look forward to except Manna. Hashem responded by sending them an abundance of meat.

The Torah records that the people spent an entire day, night, and the following day gathering the meat. The person who gathered the least meat had 10 chomers. The Vilna Gaon beautifully explains the mathematics behind this statistic. The Torah relates (11:31) that the meat fell around the Jewish camp. It stands to reason that those on the outside of the camp were closest to it and were able to make the most trips and gather the most meat. The people who collected the least were those who lived in the middle of the camp.

The Gemora in Pesachim (93b) teaches that an average person is capable of walking 10 porsaos in a day. The Gemora in Berachos (54b) teaches that the size of the entire Jewish camp was three porsaos by three porsaos. A person walking from the middle of the camp to the edge and back to his tent would traverse three porsaos. Since they gathered for two days and one night, each person was able to walk a total of 30 porsaos. Given that each round-trip for a person living in the middle of the camp was three porsaos, he could make a total of 10 round-trips. Since an average person is able to carry one chomer, those who lived in the middle of the camp and gathered the least ended up with exactly 10 chomers.
