RABBI'S DESK

Rifky and I are still flying high from the incredible outpouring of affection we experienced from all of at Moshe's aufruf. We also can't wait to celebrate together at the wedding and Sheva Brachos. As Moshe's wedding is now only a few days away, I wonder "what are the foundational principles in making a great marriage?" What should I tell him that he hasn't already seen anyway in our home? Moreover, since there are so many different types of people, is it possible to actually come up with one or two generalized guiding principles that fit everyone?

I am no John Grey marriage guru, but I will say that if you live a life of gratitude, you will be successful. It's only when you feel you deserve stuff that you get disillusioned.

May HaShem bless you, Moshe and Chayala, with a great marriage. The Jewish people need, now more than ever, good healthy marriages. Knowing both of you (Moshe a little longer) I can see that gratitude is how you live your lives. This bodes well for the Jewish People. I can wait to join both of you under the chuppah!

Be Jewish, Live Jewish, Stay Jewish
