BOOK OF REMEMBRANCE 5782/2021

Bethesda Jewish CONGREGATION

PRESIDENTS' MESSAGE

FROM GENERATION TO GENERATION

Dear Friends,

As we embrace the Days of Awe and Remembrance, our hearts turn to those for whom the past few several years have been upended, to those we have lost, and to those for whom our traditions surrounding remembrance have had to adapt to our isolated and virtual world.

Yet, we all turn to our sacred and special memories to help comfort us and bring us back to center. These remembrances help us know that though our moments of today are clouded, our past teaches us the future will be bright. The lessons from each other's histories are powerful reminders of the strength of family and dear friends.

Each year in our Book of Remembrances, we feature our beloved Holocaust scroll, rescued from the town of Boskovice, and we pay tribute to its Jewish citizens who perished in World War II. In 2019, we were both privileged to be a part of the BJC group that traveled to Europe and went to Boskovice. This powerful experience enabled us to connect on an even deeper level to our Torah and the memory of its last guardians. As we greet this fragile scroll during the hakafah, we are always reminded of this shared experience.

We are grateful you are a part of this special BJC community. Together, we will continue our traditions in this new era of uncertainty. As we begin the cycle of a new year, our commitment to each other and to the memories of our families and friends contributes to our sense of place.

We hope you will find in BJC that which means so much to us.

Whether you are with us in person or a part of our extended Zoom family, we wish you peace, and a healthy and happy New Year.

G'mar chatima Tovah

May you be sealed in the Book of Life

We Remember Them

by Sylvan Kamens &
Rabbi Jack Riemer

At the rising sun and at its going down; We remember them.

At the blowing of the wind and in the chill of winter; We remember them.

At the opening of the buds and in the rebirth of spring; We remember them.

At the blueness of the skies and in the warmth of summer; We remember them.

At the rustling of the leaves and in the beauty of the autumn; We remember them.

At the beginning of the year and when it ends; We remember them.

As long as we live, they too will live, for they are now a part of us as We remember them.

When we are weary and in need of strength; We remember them.

When we are lost and sick at heart;
We remember them.

When we have decisions that are difficult to make; We remember them.

When we have joy we crave to share;
We remember them.

When we have achievements that are based on theirs; We remember them.

For as long as we live, they too will live, for they are now a part of us as,
We remember them.

A Blessing for an Old Year and a New Year Unlike Any Other

Let's end this year with a thankful heart and start the new year with peace and faith, releasing the fear and frustrations of the past year. Let us move into the New Year focused on healing ourselves and our loved ones through repentance and renewal and bring the light of hope into our own heart, home, and world.

May the words of our mouths and the concerns in our hearts be received and responded to by the One in Whom we find refuge and redemption, Amen.

tall like a rose,
standing near....swaying ...silently with eyes which are really petals and see nothing with the face of a poet, really which is a flower and not a face with hands which whisper:
These are our beloved.....
suddenly in sunlight we will bow,
& the whole garden will bow”

Yizkor Book Angels

When Great Trees Fall by Maya Angelou

When great trees fall, rocks on distant hills shudder, lions hunker down in tall grasses,
and even elephants
lumber after safety.

When great trees fall
in forests, small things recoil into silence, their senses
eroded beyond fear.

When great souls die,
the air around us becomes light, rare, sterile.
We breathe, briefly.
Our eyes, briefly, see with a hurtful clarity.
Our memory, suddenly sharpened, examines,
gnaws on kind words
unsaid, promised walks never taken.

Great souls die and our reality, bound to them, takes leave of us.
Our souls, dependent upon their nurture,
now shrink, wizened.
Our minds, formed and informed by their radiance, fall away.
We are not so much maddened as reduced to the unutterable ignorance of dark, cold caves.

And when great souls die,
after a period peace blooms, slowly and always irregularly. Spaces fill with a kind of soothing electric vibration.
Our senses, restored, never to be the same, whisper to us.
They existed. They existed.
We can be. Be and be better. For they existed.

Music is Holy by Karen Levi

After the Kabbalat Shabbat, the young woman bolstered her courage and stepped up to the rabbi, “The music inspires me more than the actual prayers. The melodies, along with the Hebrew, transport me to a place faraway. Is this, o.k.? Or am I not doing what I should?”

“Go on,” Rabbi Ruth encouraged the woman to continue.

“Sometimes, when we sing, I feel I am in a room with wooden benches. Men daven and chant. The elderly, bearded men wear tallit and sway. It could be the old synagogue in Worms, Germany that I visited a few years ago. But I am there—connected by music to people praying a hundred years ago.”

“There are no ‘shoulds.’ That is beautiful, Kendra. I am touched that our music transports you to the past. This is a sacred bridge. Music is certainly a form of prayer. And prayer is music.” The rabbi touched her heart as she speaks.

“How so?” Kendra asked the rabbi.

“The music connects you to prayer from the past. The music allows you to lift yourself into a mystical realm. The Hebrew words are like poetry when read and repeated. Surprisingly, the translated versions are inspiring, as well. Joined together, the words in either language, form a rhythm that is verbal but nonetheless moving.”

“Mm. I see Rabbi. Sometimes when we sing the music, I enter a space of raw emotion. I sense fragile, pure feeling, that is all.”

“That is prayer in my mind, Kendra. You are blessed. Continue your path--see where the journey leads. Thank you for sharing your thoughts. Amen.”

“Shabbat Shalom.” Kendra responded, as she walked away.

To One in Sorrow by Grace Noll Crowell
Let me come in where you are weeping, friend,
And let me take your hand.
I, who have known a sorrow such as yours,
Can understand.

Let me come in -- I would be very still Beside you in your grief;
I would not bid you cease your weeping, friend,
Tears can bring relief.

Let me come in -- I would only breathe a prayer,
And hold your hand,
For I have known a sorrow such as yours,
And understand.

An Eternal Window

In a garden I once heard a song or an ancient blessing and above the dark trees a window is always lit, in memory of the face that looked out of it, and that face too was in the memory of another lit window.

-Yehuda Amichai

The Call of Shattered Glass by Davi Walders

The whole world heard it--Kristallnacht's shattered cities, stores, lives. For most, deafness and paralysis. Yet one petite woman with dark eyes, her own Lalique and Baccarat still untouched, gazed beyond her beveled windows, imagined each orphaned face, heard each small voice calling. Paying any price to bring them out of Germany, Czechoslovakia, Austria each child a jewel added to the Rothschild collections. Mme gathered them into her own Chateau de la Guette until Paris fell, buying a hotel in the south, moving them, feeding and schooling them in La Bourboule. Leaving money for them when she, herself, had to flee for her life, enough to bring them out over the Pyrenees to Spain, to fishing boats that would take them to America. Tiny charges implored to say only oui or non and smile when questioned, only smile. After the war, Madame would return to ransacked homes, crushed chandeliers, stolen paintings. She would search freight cars filled with her belongings marked "Goerring for Hitler."

Some canvases could never be restored, some heirlooms were never found--precious possessions smelted for the Reich. Yet one hundred thirty children settled in other countries, learned new languages, began again. Sixty years later, they would return to Chateau de la Guette from Boston, Miami, Cincinnati, Canada, Israel, Australia. Strangers linked by dim, grim details, coming together to place a plaque for the Baroness Germaine Halphen de Rothschild who heard the call of shattered glass and added to the Rothschild collection irreplaceable, terrified treasures.

Baroness Germaine Halphen de Rothschild (1884-1975): rescued 130 children from Germany after Kristallnacht, brought them to her home in France and then paid for their passage out of Europe to America and elsewhere.

"amen."

Exalted and hallowed be G-d's name in the world which G-d created, according to plan. May G-d's majesty be revealed in the days of our lifetime—speedily, imminently, to which we say, Amen.

Blessed be G-d's great name to all eternity.

Blessed, praised, honored, exalted, extolled, glorified, adored, and lauded be the name of the Holy Blessed One, beyond all earthly words and songs of blessing, praise, comfort. To which we say, Amen.

May there be abundant peace from heaven, and life, for us and all Israel, to which we say, Amen.

May the One who creates harmony on high, bring peace to us and to all Israel. To which we say, Amen.

Ecclesiastes 3

For everything there is a season, a time for every experience under heaven:

A time to be born and a time to die,
A time to plant and a time to uproot
what is planted,

A time to tear down and a time to build up,

A time to weep and a time to laugh,
A time to grieve and a time to dance,
A time to throw stones and a time to gather stones,

A time to embrace and a time to refrain from embracing,

A time to seek and a time to lose,
A time to keep and a time to discard,
A time to tear and a time to sew.

WE REMEMBER

We Remember the Families of Boskovice

The larger the family name appears, the more people in that family who perished during the Holocaust.

We remember and say Kaddish for them all.

Their legacy is our responsibility.

Trust at: www.memorialscrollstrust.org

Each year, our Yizkor Book pays tribute to the people and community of Boskovice, also known as Boskowitz, for whom BJC serves as home of its sacred Holocaust Torah. Our charge is to keep the memory of Boskovice and its people alive, caring for and studying their Torah.

Bethesda Jewish Congregation is a proud guardian of one of 1,564 Torah scrolls that, having been gathered for storage during World War II, survived the communities that owned them before the Shoah. Scroll # 143, from the town of Boskovice located in Moravia, Czech Republic, is on permanent loan to Bethesda Jewish Congregation from the Czech Memorial Scrolls Trust in London. It is over 160+ years old and arrived at BJC in 1971.

Boskovice was home to one of the largest Jewish communities in the province of Moravia. On March 19, 1942 the entire Jewish population of the town was deported and/or executed by the Nazis. Only 14 Jews are known to have survived. A descendent of one surviving family, Charles Ticho, visited BJC in 2005 and read from this Sefer Torah, one of only four that remain intact from the town.

Very fragile, with holes where vermin gnawed on the sheepskin, faded print in many places, and with a few missing sections, the congregation still lovingly reads from the scroll on Yom HaShoah and on, or near, the anniversary of Kristallnacht. With 160+ years of service, we consider it the oldest member of our congregation and honor the memory of the Jewish community of the town each time we take it from the ark.

The New Normal: Speeding Through Life at Forty Miles Per Hour by Barry Dwork

Such is the case, as the United States and the world moves out of a general quarantine phase from the COVID-19 pandemic which has fewer restrictions. However, unlike Tommy, the main character in The Who's rock opera, ending his own restricted existence and screaming, "I'm Free," the new Delta variant should remind us that we cannot remove all of our shackles just yet.

While we should always appreciate what we have, we should never fail to appreciate being in good health ever again. As President Biden recently said, the number of deaths of Americans dying of COVID, 600,000, is greater than those lost in both world wars, Korea, Vietnam, Iraq and Afghanistan combined. As Rabbi Zelig Pliskin has written, "human beings are susceptible to all sorts of diseases and accidents. Many things can harm a person. Even a person walking on straight and solid ground can trip and break a limb. The person who can feel joy because he is not ill or injured lives a happy life."

So for this upcoming year, we should all live it up cautiously and responsibly.

The Chesed Society was formed several years ago to assist the Rabbi and expand his role in the "good and welfare" of BJC members

The Committee:

- Visits and keeps in touch with congregants, particularly through illness and times of sadness
- Provides assistance to people observing Shiva
- Provides rides to religious services or other congregational events
- Provides rides for occasional appointments or errands
- Provides meals for people recovering from surgery
- Sends cards for major events such as illness/surgery bereavement, births, weddings, engagements, and special anniversaries and birthdays

If there is something this committee can do for you, please call.
If you live alone, or do not have local family members, call us.

In cases of serious illness or deaths, contact Rabbi Sunny.
Otherwise, please contact the office or Chesed Chair.

THANK YOU

Every effort has been made to ensure submissions are correct.
If we have made an error, please be forgiving and understanding.

Thanks to everyone who submitted names of remembrance, and who also generously supported this project with their tzedakah to BJC.

The generosity of our congregation, in addition to dues support, and that of our friends, is vital to funding our programs, services, and operations.

Appreciation to Robin Sorkin who created the initial cover design which continues to inspire the design today; Harri Kramer for editing; Elizabeth Kirkpatrick for administrative support; and Joseph Workman of Centric for their generosity in printing this meaningful BJC family album.

YOUR BJC LEGACY

After you've taken care of your family and friends, naming BJC and other charities in your will is a true mitzvah – a lasting gift expressing much about who you are and what is important to you.

Here's a suggestion for simple language to include in your will: I give, devise, and bequeath $_____ (amount) or _____% (percentage)

[Optional: and residue of my estate] to the Bethesda Jewish Congregation (BJC), 6601 Bradley Boulevard, Bethesda, Maryland 20817, recognized by the IRS as a 501(c)3 not-for-profit organization. Funds from my bequest should be designated for operational and/or program needs as recommended by the Rabbi,

Board Chair and Treasurer, upon approval of the Board of Trustees.

"If I am not for myself, who is for me?

And if I am only for myself, what am I?

And if not now, when?"

—Hillel, Pirkei Avot, 1:14

"FOR AS LONG WE WE LIVE, THEY TOO WILL LIVE, FOR THEY ARE ALL NOW A PART OF US, AS WE REMEMBER THEM."
