❖ From Our President's Desk

Gary Miller

Fellow congregants,

There are many exciting events coming up in the next six weeks, and I hope you will take advantage of as many as possible. We have two fascinating lectures during November. We have a rummage sale on November 20th. On the 27th is Jews Do the Blues, celebrating Rabbi Lazar's installation as our Rabbi. But I really want to turn your attention to two weeks further down the line, to December 10th, when we will have the opportunity to hear one of the best cabaret performers around. Linda Lavin and her arranger/accompanist, Billy Stritch, will be performing at the Annenberg Theater. This program was put together by Carol Fragen to offer our community some additional high quality entertainment and a chance to further support Temple Isaiah. You may remember Linda from her TV series Alice where she demonstrated her superb comedic talent. Now we have an opportunity to hear her in a very different medium. Linda's highly regarded as a cabaret performer, and all the reviews of her shows have been extraordinarily positive. It's a great opportunity for a fabulous evening and to support Temple Isaiah. Order your tickets by going to the Annenberg theater website or call their box office (see ad).

Shalom,

Dear Members and Friends of Temple Isaiah,

We will be honoring Rabbi David Lazar on November 27, 2016, at 4 PM. At this event, called "Jews Do the Blues", Rabbi Lazar will be officially welcomed to Palm Springs by Mayor Robert Moon. There will be a jazz musical performance featuring Deanna Bogart and Musical Friends. Rabbi Lazar will be an important part of the musical performance too!

I hope you will be able to attend the event. While there is no fee for attending, we will have a high-quality program book as part of the event and as a way to pay tribute to Rabbi Lazar. There are several ways to advertise or list your name:

	Full Price (non-members)	Temple Member (10% discount)
• Premium placement Full-page color ad: (8 1/2" H X 5 1/2" W)	$1,800	$1,620

• Half page ad Black & White (4 1/4" H x 5 1/2" W)	$300	$270
• List name in Members & Friends Tribute Page:	$50	$45

❖ From the Rabbi's Study Rabbi David Lazar

*Come gather around people
Wherever you roam
And admit that the waters
Around you have grown
And accept it that soon
You'll be drenched to the bone
And if your breath to you is worth saving
Then you better start swimming or you'll sink like a stone
For the times they are a-changin'*

These words were an important part of the soundtrack for many of us growing up in the '60s. They validated our feelings that not all was well with our world and gave us hope that things could, and indeed would, change.

So it was with great joy that many of us received the news that Bob Dylan will be receiving this year's Nobel Prize for literature next month in Stockholm.

We all have our favorite Dylan songs. One of mine is Gotta Serve Somebody:

*You may be an ambassador to England or France
You may like to gamble, you might like to dance
You may be the heavyweight champion of the world
You may be a socialite with a long string of pearls
But you're gonna have to serve somebody, yes
Indeed you're gonna have to serve somebody
Well, it may be the devil or it may be the Lord
But you're gonna have to serve somebody*

For me, this is a song about each of us being part of a greater picture, a larger plan. So often we delude ourselves into thinking that we by ourselves, or even our relationships with others, exist in a vacuum. Whatever decisions we think we're making, says Dylan, will in one way or another support all sorts of things going on around us. It is that, I believe, which we should constantly strive to keep in mind in all that we do.

A Nobel Prize for Bob Dylan? Well indeed, the times they are a changin'...

One of the musicians who played with Dylan in the 60's was a young Jewish guy named Mike Bloomfield. He later went on to become one of the best known blues guitarists in the United States though his life – like too many talented musicians of the late 20th century – ended in tragedy. A newly revised edition of Michael Bloomfield: The Rise and Fall of an American Guitar Hero, by Ed Ward and Billy Gibbons just came out last month. In it, we read that at an early age on the North side of Chicago, Bloomfield found a way to express a deep sense of spiritualism at his bar mitzvah ceremony. This is how his father Allen Bloomfield later recalled:

"It's like his first performance, if you will," Allen said. "He goes beyond the call of duty of just reciting the Haftorah, which is the part you have to memorize. Michael added certain dramatics to it for— I don't know, we'll just call it 'theatrical effect.' He would look up at the ceiling, raise his eyes, and sort of have a dialogue with, if you will, or speak directly to, the Absolute..."

Soon after, with the help of the family's African-American maid, he began visiting some of the blues clubs on the southern side of town. It was there that he eventually got a chance to jam with some of the greatest blues legends like Muddy Waters. Bloomfield later remembered:

"I would go down there thinking I was really some hot stuff, you know, 'cause I had some fast fingers and I had plenty of licks, but I didn't have no soul or nothing. All I had was that speed and some brash Jewboy confidence."

Indeed, it was a bit strange that this upper middle class Jewish kid was getting involved in this form of music that was so intrinsic to the African-American experience. Yet he did, and he got really good at it. Al Kooper, who collaborated with both Bloomfield and Dylan once reminisced:

Michael used to say, 'It's a natural. Black people suffer externally in this country. Jewish people suffer internally. The suffering's the mutual fulcrum for the blues.'

Whether or not you agree with this way of looking at our two peoples' historical narratives, it can not be denied that the blues have played a central role in so much of the music we all listen to today.

We are blessed here in the Coachella Valley with our own Jewish blues virtuoso, Deanna Bogart. You might have seen her holding court at Woody's over the last couple of years on Experimental Wednesdays or have listened to one of her many albums. While she plays a wide range of music, the blues – in so many varied and wonderful forms – are at the heart of her work.

And so with great pleasure we look forward to hosting Deanna, together with some of the most talented local musicians: Chuck Alvarez, Rabbi Andrew Bentley, Bob Gross, Bob Hamilton and Jeff Olson at the Jews Do the Blues concert in honor of my official installation (by Mayor Robert Moon) as Rabbi of Temple Isaiah. We promise a wide range of music – not just the blues – and some of my own commentary on each of the songs through which I hope to share my vision of the future for us as a community.

I know that for many of you the question still remains: A blues concert in lieu of a proper rabbinic installation, complete with long speeches, pomp and a gala dinner? My answer is: You bet! For indeed, "the times they are a changin'!"

Looking forward to seeing everyone here at the Temple on November 27 at 4:00!

Rabbi David Lazar

❖ From the Executive Director

Doug Morton

Dear Friends,

What a great 'yontif' this has been! The Rabbi's sermons were current, pertinent and compelling. The music was incredible! Attendance was great. The break-fast was delicious and everyone there enjoyed being able to end the holiday at a meal together.

As always, there were so many who worked so very hard to make the services run smoothly. I want to take a minute and thank everyone who participated. (Somehow I know I'll miss someone and for that, my heartfelt apologies in advance!).

Thank you to Harold Clumeck, Richard Jeffrey, Irwin Sacks, Chris Spellman, Gary Stone, Jake Wright, Gil Gold, Spencer Howard, Ron Martinez, Soo Borson, Roni Spetalnick, Kerry Turner, Peter Gordon, Alan Moss, Polly and Avi Showalter, Lyle Sachs, Shoshana Barer, Brenda Castano, Bob Fey, Shelley Miller-Mantell and Ira Helf, You made members and guests feel welcome, helped people find seats, helped keep the foyer quiet during services and helped to make walking into our Temple a pleasant experience. Thank you to all who helped pass out herbs during Havdallah, making it an even nicer start to 5777. Sandie Ovesen, you were here helping to greet and solve problems and make our guests feel welcome. Christopher Greene and Larea Pettersen, yes, you are staff members, but you both went above and beyond. Thank you! And, of course, all of us that received an aliyah, had a reading or played a part in the service know that we are so thankful for Miriam Bent. It is thanks to Miriam that we know when to be prepared, what we need to do and generally help to make our congregants look together and polished. Thank You ALL!

I want to remind you that if for some reason you forgot to complete your Kol Nidre pledge card you can still do it online, call the office, or fill out the card that we will send you in the mail. Thanks to all of you we expect a higher goal that we've hit in a long time and this will certainly help us tighten the gap in our budget.

We have two very interesting lectures coming up in November. On Sunday, November 6 at 4:00 pm, here at the Temple, we will have Dr. Ted Merwin, Author of "Pastrami On Rye" speak about "Homeland for the Jewish Soul: the History of the Jewish Deli in America". And there will be a chance to sample some pastrami after the lecture!

Ayelet Tsabari, Author of "The Best Place on Earth" will speak about "Stories about Mizrahi Jews in Israel: Children, Soldiers & Bohemian Lovers" at the UC Riverside/Palm Desert Campus auditorium on Sunday, November 20 at 4:00 P.M. These should both be great lectures and I hope you'll come support our lecture series and meet a few people afterwards.

Please take a minute to help our "Rummage Sale in Memory of Dottie Fields" Committee by looking around and see what kinds of things you can donate to the Temple for the sale on Sunday morning November 20 being held in our parking lot here at the Temple. There is more information in this Chai Lights, and you can also contact Ron Martinez at 323-251-5250.

During November we will finally officially welcome our wonderful spiritual leader, Rabbi David Lazar. Instead of a typical installation, we will be honoring him with a Jews Do the Blues Concert on Sunday, November 27th. Rabbi will be officially welcomed to our community by Palm Springs Mayor, Robert Moon. Details of the event are on the cover and page 2 of this Chai Lights, There will be no entry fee.

Instead we will have a high-quality program book as part of the event and, as a way to pay tribute to Rabbi Lazar, there will be several ways to advertise or list your name. Details are on page 2 and on our website, templeisaiahps.com or just call the office at 760-325-2281.

We have a member of the board who is working so hard to make our fundraiser an incredible success this year. Carol Fragen, on behalf of the entire congregation, THANK YOU! On December 10 we will have a concert with Linda Lavin and Billy Stritch at the Annenberg Theatre at the Palm Springs Art Museum.

While my favorite performance of Linda Lavin was her guest appearance on the new series "Mom," many of you know her from her movies, television shows and Broadway musicals. If you aren't familiar with her, take a minute and look her up. She is awesome. Honestly, the 30 minutes on the sitcom "Mom" is the most hilarious 30 minutes I've ever spent watching television (and I watch lots!). Did you know that Billy Stritch has also performed as the pianist for Liza Minelli (amongst many other things).

Let's support Carol Fragen's hard work, support the Temple and treat yourself to a marvelous evening by attending! Purchase your tickets by going online to Annenbergtheatre.org or by calling 760-325-4490. I look forward to seeing you all there!

Shalom,

Douglas
