❖ From Our President's Desk

Gary Miller

Dear Fellow Congregants,

August is usually a very slow month in Palm Springs and at Temple Isaiah. But it seems as though we have ignored the calendar. During this month, through the hard work of Carol Fragen, we finalized a fundraising event starring Linda Lavin with Billy Stritch to occur on December 10.

The Rabbi has begun to move forward with programs that engage our congregation with Mitzvah projects in the community, including the tutoring of students, at the James O. Jesse Desert Highlands Community Center and, with guidance from Dr. Soo Borson, creating the Memory Café at Temple Isaiah, to help all those who are dealing with issues of memory loss in their family.

Doug Morton and Dr. Michael Alexander, Maimonides Chair of Jewish Studies at UC Riverside, have been busy, setting up this year's Philip and Eleanor Short Lecture Series, with speakers ranging from an award-winning author to a research scientist from Ben-Gurion University in Israel. This series will start on Sunday September 18, 2016 at 4 PM with the talk by Professor Ron Folman, speaking on new technology developed in Israel (see page 8 for details). The Rabbi has also been busy arranging a speaker series "Judaism in the 21st Century" which begins in December (see page 9).

During the last year we have experimented with Shabbat services being held once a month at 6:30 p.m. Although it seemed to work reasonably well, there was some confusion, and the Board would like your opinion which service time is best for you. Email your response to mail@templeisaiahps.com or call 760-325-2281.

With the High Holidays not beginning until October 2nd, we decided to add a fourth Summer Social this year - on September 21st. These have been 'fun' events and I hope you will join us. See below.

I hope that you of all had a good summer and we look forward to seeing you soon.

Gary Miller, President

❖ From the Rabbi's Study

Rabbi David Lazar

I have spent much of the last 35 years in ongoing conversations with biblical texts. From my studies at The Hebrew University in Jerusalem to serving as a Masorti/Conservative in Israel and Sweden, and now in Palm Springs, the Hebrew Bible, or Tanakh, has been a major source of knowledge, wisdom and inspiration when it comes to my Jewish identity as well as my thinking about the human condition.

One of those conversations, that reoccurs each year at this time, is with Psalm 27. Since at least the mid-18th century, this poem has been recited daily by Ashkenazic Jews from the beginning of the month of Elul (this year, September 4) until the end of Sukkot (October 23). There are a number of different explanations as to why this passage was chosen from among the 150 psalms for this season. For some, its constant repetition of God's name serves as protection at this time of year, when individuals are judged for their actions of the year that has passed. For others, it is the poem's optimism, looking forward to better times after the summer month of Av, a time of mourning over tragedies that have befallen our people. And then there are those who might focus on the psalmist's hope of constantly dwelling in God's house as indicative of synagogues are filled only over the High Holidays!

Here is a key passage of the Psalm:

May I dwell in the house of the Lord all the days of my life, to behold the graciousness of the Lord, and to be present in the Lord's place. (vs. 4)

What indeed is "the house of the Lord" in our time and what would it mean to "dwell" in it? Is this the same as coming to synagogue for prayer and study, limited to a particular building and type of activity? Or could it also mean how we sanctify our homes and every aspect of our lives, with the very way we conduct our lives? This is just one example of how a timely and relevant "conversation" with this psalm might go. To my mind, this, as well as each verse of this poem, can provide us with an opportunity to prepare ourselves for the upcoming sacred days when we find ourselves at a crossroads in time. From contemplating the way we have led our life in the year that has passed to contemplating our life as we feel and know it should be, there is work to do, changes to be made and wrongs to be made right.

While this is primarily a personal inner-conversation between us and ourselves, Psalm 27, also affords the membership and leadership of Temple Isaiah to again take stock of how we function as a sacred community. To that end, I would like to suggest that we attempt to do this both as individuals and as a community during the upcoming month of Elul.

If you'd like to try taking part in this conversation with this psalm in preparation for this year's High Holidays, I invite you to sign up for a daily thought, based upon the words of this text. You can do this by sending an email to Larea Pettersen in the Temple office (lpettersen@templeisaiahps.com), advising her that you would like to receive the Psalm 27 daily message in your inbox. You can also find these messages on our Temple Isaiah Facebook page.

May it be a good month of anticipation and preparation for a most meaningful High Holiday season!

❖ From the Executive Director Doug Morton

What an incredible few months we have coming up at Temple Isaiah! Please note that we will be sending out High Holiday tickets to all our new and renewed members in mid September.

Once again we will have wonderful Caron Taubman Glasser as our Cantor.

Many of you have requested that we bring back the Erev Rosh Hashanah dinner. Well, it's back! What better way to bring in the High Holidays than with our Temple Family, over dinner with great food, and then go right upstairs for High Holiday services. And last year's Break-the-Fast following Yom Kippur services was an amazing end to the services, with over 100 participating. It was terrific to be able to go right downstairs after Yom Kippur and break the fast together! IMPORTANT: We must have at least 50 people signed up for each meal for us to go forward with our plans. Please RSVP early.

I am very excited to announce another technical innovation for our Temple: our own mobile phone application! Go to the app store and download TempleIsaiah. Want to see current events, service times, Jewish Holidays, get a friend's number from the Temple Directory or view your account? Just go to the phone application. You'll even be able to connect to the general web site. Thank you so much to Jeff Diebley, a good friend of our Temple, for putting countless hours into making this happen! The Temple is truly entering the 21st Century.

Just to make it easy, come October 19 at 2:15 pm, before ExploraTorah, and we'll help you download the phone app to your telephone, show you how it works and make sure you're good to go on the web site as well. Bring your cell phone and/or lap top. Give it a try!

Speaking of the 21st Century, join us on September 18 for the first lecture of the 2016-2017 Phillip and Eleanor Short Series, when Professor Ron Folman from Ben Gurion University will present "Quantum: A new 21st Century Technology That Will Change the Way We Do Things," a program that is part of the UCR Jewry and Innovation initiative. "Talking to Atoms," "preventing space jamming," "new neuro drugs," plus data protection, super computers and more. Fascinating!

See our flyer on the Short Lecture Series for information on the other three speakers and their topics: Dr. Ted Merwin, (author of "Pastrami on Rye"), Ayelet Tsabari and Dr. Alyssa Sepinwall. We are indebted to Dr. Michael Alexander, Chair, UC Riverside Maimonides Jewish Studies Chair for his leadership and partnership in putting together this series each year.

Great New Series: Rabbi Lazar has put together four lectures on "Judaism for the 21st Century," in partnership with the Jewish Federation of the Desert. Check out the flyer on the series in this issue of the Chai Lights. All are amazing speakers and great topics. Choose one or all, there is something for everyone.

On November 27 will be Rabbi's long overdue Welcome to our Congregation event, with a concert Jews Do the Blues, featuring Deeana Bogart and her band, and vocalists Gabi and Avigail Lazar. (See ad).

Then, on December 10, our annual major fundraiser features Tony® Award winning Broadway, television and film star Linda Lavin and Billy Stritch, at Palm Springs Museum Annenberg Theatre. You surely remember Linda on the television series Alice or her recent guest appearance as the Jewish Mother-In-Law to be on Mom (the funniest 30 minutes I ever spent watching a show).

Purchase tickets for only $150 (not bad for a fundraiser). Even better, for $250 you are included in a reception and will meet Linda Lavin and Billy Stritch!

We'd love you to help the Temple as a Sponsor, enabling the evening to be even more successful! Please know, we want and need your help. Contact me at the Temple to discuss a sponsorship for the program. Thank you Carol Fragen, for working so hard to bring this quality program to the Valley. It promises to be one of Palm Springs' greatest entertaining evenings of the year!

The Temple has several committees forming or hard at work, including Twice Blessed, which offers LGBTQ programming here at Temple Isaiah/JCC. Our Women's Auxiliary is preparing to open their gift shop near the High Holidays and our Rummage Sale Committee is planning the Temple Isaiah Rummage Sale, being held in memory of our beloved Dottie Fields, on November 20 in our parking lot. Start thinking of the quality items that you would be willing to donate to make this sale a success. Better yet, come participate. More information can be obtained by calling Ron Martinez at 323-251-5250 or emailing him at Ronpeter912@gmail.com.

We have our energetic Jewish Film Festival Committee, headed by Eileen Stern, who are preparing even bigger Festival IV this coming March. A new Early Childhood Literacy Project is helping children in North Palm Springs with reading, and Soo Borson is heading our new exciting program, Memory Café, for those living with memory loss, and their friends, family and caregivers, beginning in October

As you can see, there is so much going on at our Temple. Please, come, share, volunteer, participate. We are a great Temple. With your involvement it is even greater!

Shalom,

Douglas Morton
